Manchukuan Oil Monopoly Grave Issue, Say British

London Government Takes Serious View of Tangle Created By Japan's Attitude on System Set Up in Puppet State

U.S. and Holland Also Protesting

Canadian Press
London, Oct. 26.—The British Government, it was authoritatively learned today, takes a very serious view of the proposal to establish a state oil monopoly in the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo.

With the United States and the Dutch government, although the representations were separately, Britain has called the attention of the Japanese government to the various declarations by Japanese representatives announcing the intention to maintain the policy of the "open door" in Manchuria.

PROTESTED IN AUGUST

On the British side, protests date back to August, when the oil monopoly, injuring British, Dutch and United States oil concerns trading in Manchuria, was first mooted. But so far Tokyo has sent no satisfactory reply.

Reports to-day from Tokyo said the Japanese government considered the question one for the "independent" Manchukuo government, and further that declarations regarding the open door policy were unilateral, from which they could withdraw.

The protests were sent to the Japanese government rather than to Manchukuo for the simple reason that Britain, like the United States, still does not recognize the new state.

JAPANESE STAFF

Tokyo, Oct. 26.—Japan disclosed today it had told Great Britain and the United States it was unable to ask Manchukuo to modify a proposed oil monopoly programme and advised them to approach the Manchukuo government directly.

It was pointed out in foreign circles (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

HOSPITAL GAINS FROM AIR RACE

Canadian Press via Reuters
Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 26.—As a mark of appreciation for the aid given by the town of Albury when the Dutch Airlines plane in the England-Australia air derby was lost in that district, the Dutch government is presenting 1,000 florins (about $400) to the Albury Hospital.

The gift is in appreciation of the "true sportsmanship" of Albury residents. It was stated. They guided the Dutch plane safely to a landing controlling lights from the town from the powerhouse and flashing signals thereby in Morse to the aviators overhead.

Campaign Chairman Appeals To Public

F. E. Winslow Says $43,500 Must Be Collected If Deporable State in Greater Victoria Is to Be Avoided

The committee in charge of the campaign hopes it will not be necessary to make a house-to-house canvass, stated F. E. Winslow, chairman of the Greater Victoria Welfare drive, and president of the Friendly Help Welfare Association, this morning in speaking of the drive for $43,500, now being carried on and for which a total of a little over $17,000 has been collected after nearly two weeks.

"An organization for that purpose should be difficult to arrange on short notice," Mr. Winslow said, "and we are anxious to avoid such an expenditure, but the money must be obtained if we are to prevent a very deplorable state of affairs this winter and during the coming year. We appeal to the general public, therefore, for enthusiastic support. If those in steady employment could see their way clear to contribute, say, half a day's pay to the fund, I believe our troubles would soon be overcome. Could not someone in each of the larger places of employment give their services to organizing for this purpose?"

NEED $43,500

When Piccard Stratosphere Balloon Landed in Ohio

After an ascent of "about ten miles" into the stratosphere, Professor Jean Piccard and his wife, Jeannette, first woman to pilot a balloon into the upper air, brought their big balloon down in a remote, wooded gulch two miles south of Cadiz, Ohio. The big bag was ripped in a dozen places as it came down through the trees, but the fall was broken and valuable scientific instruments in the gondola escaped damage and the records made by them are now being studied for new light on cosmic rays. When the above picture was taken the first searchers to reach the balloon, after its descent were assisting in untagging the gear, with the gondola in the background and the torn bag still suspended in the trees. The flight of the Piccards was started from Detroit.

New Relief Terms Cause City Loss Of $23,783 Yearly

City Officials Work Out What Premier Pattullo Calls "Small Share" Deficiency: Means Another Half Mill in Taxation, Says Ald. P. R. Brown, Head of Finance Committee

The sum Victoria would have to absorb under the new terms for unemployment relief, termed by Premier Pattullo as a "small share," would amount to $23,783 a year, on the basis of the current year's budget, it was learned at the City Hall today. It would mean the city would have to provide $124,988, instead of $101,205, the amount of the city's one-third contribution towards unemployment relief costs this year.

Figures were worked out in detail following a lengthy interview yesterday between D. A. Macdonald, city controller; E. G. Snowden, city relief officer; and E. W. Griffith, provincial relief administrator. Under the new terms, Victoria would be required to pay 41.16 per cent of unemployment relief to married men, 37.5 per cent to single men, 31.3 per cent to all married transients in place of 23.1-3 per cent under the old arrangement.

That 7.2-3 per cent increase on the total costs amounts to a 23 1/2 per cent on the city's contribution.

ALDERMAN'S PROTEST

Strong protest against the action was voiced by Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, today on behalf of the home owners of the city.

AUSTRIA AGAIN FACES CRISIS

Political Situation Declared More Dangerous Than Before Dollfus Slain

Vienna, Oct. 26.—Events in Austria appeared to be heading toward a crisis today.

The political situation at present seems to be more dangerous and complicated, veteran observers said, even than it was before July 25, when Chancellor Dollfus was assassinated. Differences between the Heimwehr (Fascist Home Guard) and Catholic Storm Troops appear to be increasing daily, despite official assurances to the contrary.

Open clashes between these two armed groups, on which the government depends almost entirely for its existence, were reported to-day from Innsbruck and Graz. In Innsbruck the fighting was so serious police had to be called out.

GROUP JAILED

Renewed activities by the powerful but suppressed Socialist and Communist opposition, as indicated by raids yesterday, and the arrest of more than seventy alleged propaganda agents, also are worrying the government. Seventy were sentenced yesterday to concentration camps.

It was reported to-day that Austrian troops which had been concentrated around the Austro-Yugoslav border since the July insurrection in this country had been withdrawn and dispatched to Upper Austria and Upper Styria, where Communist and Socialist forces were said to be planning separate uprisings.

ALBERTA HAS SNOW BLANKET

Canadian Press
Calgary, Oct. 26.—Most districts of southern Alberta had snow yesterday evening, ranging from six inches in the foothills to two inches to the east of Lethbridge and Calgary. Temperatures were higher this morning, and a bright sun glistened on the south's new snow blanket.

Nazis to Leave Churches Free

Hitler Abandoning Plan to Unify All German Protestants

Berlin, Oct. 26.—Events in Germany's church war hastened toward a final dramatic climax to-day as Nazi district leaders from all parts of the Reich were notified to gather for a secret conference with Reichsbishop Adolf Hitler at Munich tomorrow and Sunday.

Embarrassed officially and personally by the trend of a situation which has torn the German Lutheran church asunder and imperiled Nazi prestige more than any crisis since the Roehm revolt, Hitler to-day was believed to have entirely capitulated on his backing of the move to unify all German Protestantism under the Nazi banner.

It had been announced that Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller and some two dozen bishops would be sworn in yesterday. The rift between the Reichsbishop and his one-time foe, Adolf Hitler, was said to have been patched when Hitler announced that he would not yesterday, or at any time in the future, receive Mueller for the purpose of taking his oath of loyalty.

Arrest Puts Plane Team Out of Race

Karachi, India, Oct. 26.—John H. Wright and John Polakow announced today they would withdraw from the England-to-Melbourne airplane handicap race because of time lost through their arrest in Persia.

Wright complained bitterly because of his detention at Mohammedia, in a statement after landing here. He planned to file a protest against the Persian Government and demand expenses.

Both men were angry. They said they had received only one sandwich to eat while they were detained, and were given nothing to drink despite repeated requests.

PAIR SEEKING PLANE RECORD

C. Jones and K. Waller Ready to Start From Australia For England

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 27.—Cathart Jones prepared his plane for a dawn take off to-day in an attempt to cut the time of C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black in their record flight from England to Australia.

As the British flier made ready for the proposed hop of himself and Kent Waller toward London at about 6 a.m. (approximately noon to-day by radio time) nine of the air Derbyists still were en route to the finish line.

Col. Roscoe Turner, who had been mentioned as a possible rival of Jones and Waller in the projected London flight, spiked the report and said, when it was suggested he take part in a possible race, "This race has dashed me out."

Turner and Clyde Pangborn came in third in the race, while Jones and Ken Waller were fourth.

APPEAL COURT HEARS INDIAN

Joseph George Testifies at Vancouver For His Three Convicted Brothers

Vancouver, Oct. 26.—The three Indian brothers of Eneas George had agreed, before police appeared at the Canford Reserve to arrest the Indian, to take him to Merritt, B.C., the following day in connection with the wounding of his wife, Joseph George testified to-day when he appeared in the appeal of his brothers against conviction of the murder of Dominion Constable F. H. Giesbrene.

The British Columbia Court of Appeal is hearing Joseph's story of events leading up to the slaying of Giesbrene and Provincial Constable Percy Carr on May 23 before deciding on a motion of Defence Counsel Stuart Henderson to introduce his evidence in support of the appeal.

Richardson, Eneas and Alex George were under sentence to be hanged to-day, but they were granted a reprieve to February 27.

Through an interpreter, Joseph told the court he had come to the Canford reserve from Coldwater, B.C., on account of Eneas's small children and after hearing that Eneas and his wife were in trouble. He said he met Eneas, who was being conveyed to Merritt and said she told him Eneas had hurt her.

Man In Quebec Is Held After Six Shot To Death

Police Say J. R. Bilodeau, Gassed War Veteran, First Gives Details of Killings, Then Refuses to Answer Questions

Quebec, Oct. 26.—Bodies of six persons, reported victims of a sudden fit of insanity on the part of a gas-tortured Great War veteran who ran amok with a pistol, lay in the city morgue to-day. Two others who fell before the bullets from his gun were being treated in a hospital.

Police held J. R. Bilodeau, former mail carrier, under close guard, saying he had given details of all six slayings. He was seized after he had walked into the post office and fired three post office officials with a sudden burst of gunfire. One died a few minutes later. Bilodeau then told police he had killed his two sisters, a niece and two nephews and that their bodies would be found in a wood near Ste. Therese de Beaufort, just outside the city. Detectives rushed to the spot and found the three women lying in the underbrush. Two were dead and one died within a few minutes.

BODIES FOUND

To-day searchers found bodies of the two nephews, not far from where their sister and two aunts had lain. The bodies were brought to the morgue.

RECORD ATTEMPT IS POSTPONED

Lympe Airplane, Eng. Oct. 26.—Col. James C. Fitzmaurice to-day postponed for another twenty-four hours his take-off for Australia in an attempt to break the plane speed record between England and the Commonwealth, set a few days ago by C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black.

Lloyd George Scores Haig's Leadership

But in His New Book, Just Out, He Leaves Readers Guessing as to Whether Currie Or Smuts Should Have Been Appointed British Army Commander in France

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Oct. 26.—The late Field Marshal Earl Haig "obviously" should have been dismissed from the post of Commander-in-Chief of the British forces early in 1918, but no better substitute was available, declares Right Hon. David Lloyd George in the fourth volume of his memoirs, published to-day.

The new volume contains warm praise of General Jan Smuts, South Africa's great soldier and statesman, who incidentally is now in England, and commends the "common-sense" of Canada's war-time Prime Minister, Sir Robert L. Borden.

But the British war leader declares Haig was inadequate for his gigantic task, and he makes a cryptic reference in this connection which might be taken to mean General Smuts or General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian Corps, who died in Montreal some months ago.

ACTION WAS NEEDED

"What action ought I to have taken to ensure that the military mistakes which had exhausted the man power and almost destroyed the morale of the Allies should not be repeated in 1918?" Mr. Lloyd George asks himself. "The most obvious was to dismiss our chief military adviser, who had failed us so badly, and the Commander-in-Chief who had proved himself as a strategist to be unequal to the task."

France Announces New Air Service

Paris, Oct. 26.—Gen. Victor Denain, minister of aviation, told the chamber of deputies' air committee to-day that a weekly all-air service from Paris to Buenos Aires would begin in January.

He said the schedule would be two and a half days westward and three days eastward, compared with the present operating schedule of seven days and seven and a half days.

SECRETARY TAKES HOLIDAY

Campaign Chairman Appeals to Public

paign has been carried on for about a week and a half. The requirements, which were very carefully budgeted for by the Friendly Help Welfare Association, Sanich Welfare Asso-

tion, Oak Bay Friendly Help and Esquimalt Friendly Help, showed that approximately $43,000 was necessary to carry on the work and to provide food and clothing for all needy persons. It would be idle for me to suggest that the amount so far received is encouraging.

"Some complaints have been made that accounts for expenditures of the Friendly Help Welfare Association have not been made available to the public. As a matter of fact, this Association was formed in July, 1933, by merging the Friendly Help Society and the Social Service League into one association and a statement of its expenditures to the end of that year was submitted to the annual meeting in February last. The same report will be followed in February of each year. This, I believe, is the method in use by organizations such as ours. Persons who contribute $1 or more per annum can become members of the association, if they wish, and receive a copy of the annual report.

CLOTHES BIG ITEM
"In the meantime, it might be of interest to those who were inquiring to know that the Friendly Help Welfare Association's budget is roughly as follows:
Clothing ..... $18,000
Food, milk, etc. .... 8,000
Salaries ..... 7,000
General expenses, including office equipment, telephone, postage, car fare and contribution to the Central Exchange and Building expenses, including heat and janitor services . . . 2,000

Total ..... $35,000
There are eight people employed by the association as against twelve who were employed by the three organizations, namely: Friendly Help Society, Social Service League and Citizens' Unemployment Relief, whose work we are doing. Besides these, about seventy volunteer workers give their services. Some of the latter assist in the clothing department, while others supply their own automobiles and drive the visiting staff wherever their duty takes them. Several of these volunteers assist at Sunshine Camp which, although maintained by a separate fund, is managed by the association through a sub-committee.

"The social service work on which the staff is engaged aims at preventing dependency and family disintegration by building up the ability of the individual to understand and meet his own needs, tries to help families to solve such problems as desertion, marital discord, child behavior problems and co-operates with health agencies and physicians in building up public health.
"The association gives material relief as part of a plan for families whose needs cannot be met in any other way. Milk is supplied on medical recommendation to families on relief. As you will see from the above

ORGANIZATION OF BANK UNDER WAY

At First General Meeting of Bank of Canada January 23 Directors Will Be Elected

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 26.—The first general meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Canada will be held January 23, it was announced by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes here to-day.
At that meeting the seven directors of the bank will be elected.

The distribution of the directors will be occupational. Two are to be elected from shareholders engaged in primary industry, two from commerce and manufacturing, and the remaining three from other vocations.

Decision to hold the first meeting on January 23 was made yesterday at a meeting of the provisional directors. Those present were: Dr. W. C.
Clark, Deputy Minister of Finance; Laurens Headley, councillor of the External Affairs Department; B. J.
Roberts, comptroller, government guarantee branch; W. Mon. Sellar, comptroller of the treasury; C. E.
Campbell, comptroller of currency;
W. C. Ross, director of estimates and assistant secretary of the treasury board; and R. B. Vieta, solicitor, to the treasury.

Dr. Clark and Mr. Vieta were named chairman and secretary, respectively, of the provisional directorate. The latter body will remain in office until replaced by the directors elected by the shareholders, and will serve without remuneration.

At yesterday's meeting discussions centred on matters of organization, relating chiefly to arrangements to be made for carrying out the provisions of the act and the by-laws in regard to nomination of directors.

PAPERS SENT OUT
In his statement issued to-day,
the minister said:

"The date (January 23, 1935) selected was based primarily on the requirement that shareholders, in order to vote at such meeting, must have stock registered in their names for at least three months before the date of the meeting."

"The board authorized the immediate issuance of nomination papers to all shareholders. These nomination papers must be returned to the bank not later than December 5.

"A covering letter explaining in simple terms the procedure governing nominations and the shareholders in making eligibility of directors.
assist shareholders in making nominations a list of all persons to whom shares were allotted as a result of the original offering of stock will be sent to all shareholders."

"It is the intention to make provision shortly for the issue of interim stock certificates which will be transferable on the books of the bank."

TO SHIP PLANE
Turner said he would go to Sydney Monday to arrange for shipment to the United States of the plane in which he and Pangborn flew here from England.

The Jones-Walker plane is a duplicate of that flown by Scott and Black in winning first prize in the speed race.

AT PORT DARWIN
The fifth plane in the race to reach Australia, flown by Squadron Leader Malcolm MacGregor of New Zealand, landed at Port Darwin this morning.

Squadron Leader D. S. Stodart of England, left Batavia, Java, Saturday.

M. Hansen of Denmark took off from Aloer Star, British Malaya, after being delayed by repairs. J. E. Hewett and
C. E. Kay left Rangoon, Dutch East Indies, and arrived at Koepang, John H. Wright and John Polando arrived at Karschi, India, while C. J. Mellison of Australia reached Singapore, preparatory to hopping for Australia.

FINE LEVIED FOR UNLAWFUL FISHING
Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Oct. 26.—J. A. Solvey, Cheminuiss fisherman, pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful fishing for salmon with a purse valued at $25 and was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Beever Potts.

C. R. Purvey, fishing guard, district, was found dead in a feed-house yesterday afternoon. He was a native of Finland and had resided at Cedar twenty-five years. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Eric and Joel, Nanaimo, and three daughters residing in Vancouver.

Edward Lake, seventy-six, died in hospital here. A native of England, he had resided in Nanaimo twenty-four years. He is survived by his widow, three sons, William at home, Sidney (Five Acres), Ernest (Vancouver) and two daughters residing in Vancouver.

budget even this relief amounts to a very substantial sum.

"The great benefit social service work is to a community has been stated in previous advertisements published by the different associations, and it does not seem necessary again to dwell on this at any great length.

"The estimated amount for clothing is, as you will see, a large one, and it must be borne in mind that in addition to this, drives are made for second-hand clothing, which we have cleaned before distribution.

"The reason that such a large sum of money is required this year is that the Citizens' Unemployment Relief Fund, which was functioning up to February, 1934, is now out of existence, and the public must bear the mind that families have to be clothed and that second-hand clothing can be depended upon only to meet a small fraction of the demand. The association funds it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of new clothing and shoes, and to pay for the repairing of worn shoes.

"The committee of management of the Friendly Help Welfare Association attends to its duties, in my opinion, very faithfully, there being very few absences from the monthly meetings, and the sub-committees meetings are also regularly attended.
Surely, under the circumstances, Greater Victoria should support the different welfare societies now conducting the drive, and contribute generously to the fund. So far, the number of subscribers is about one quarter that of last year.

"Subscriptions may be left at Room 6, 640 Fort Street (Winch Building), and no matter how small will be gratefully received."

Man in Quebec Is Held After Six Are Shot To Death

The dead:
Oscar Pisset, sixty, divisional superintendent of the Quebec postal service.
Marie Blodeau, sixty-three, sister of the man held.
Roselle Blodeau, sixty-two, another sister.
Yvette Gauvin, twenty-one, his niece.
Gaston Gauvin, twenty, nephew of Blodeau.
Fernand Gauvin, eighteen, another nephew.

FIGHTS FOR LIFE
To-day, J. B. L. Morin, postmaster of Quebec, was fighting for his life in hospital, critically injured by Blodeau, who suddenly appeared in the post office yesterday afternoon and fired eight shots at Morin, Pisset and Mole Jolicoeur, senior mail clerk, who was slightly injured.

All through the night search parties scoured the woods seeking the Gauvin boys, who had been missing from the city since yesterday morning, when they were invited by their uncle to take a drive with him.

According to his own story, told after he had been seized in the post office, Blodeau took the boys to the woods and shot them.

He left the bodies there, drove back to Quebec and invited his sisters and niece to go for a drive.

He headed his automobile in the same direction. At a spot near where he said the boys met death at his hands, the women were shot. Then he sped back to Quebec and made his dramatic appearance at the post office on Bunde Street.

Court officials said there seemed no doubt Blodeau suffered from delusions of persecutions which reached so great an intensity that he went out of his mind and ran amok.

Apparently, police said, the women had seemingly been killed as they walked in single file along a path.

These slayings were carried out in about two hours and then Blodeau entered the post office. Eight shots were fired. Pisset and Jolicoeur slumped to the floor, but Postmaster Morin, although wounded, three times, managed to keep his feet and stagger out for help.

REFUSES TO TALK
After the bodies of the nephews were found it was decided to postpone the inquest until to-morrow, the forty-five-year-old man was brought to central police headquarters for questioning.

He appeared quite calm and according to officers, remarking it might be dangerous for him to reply.

REPEATEDLY KILLED
Blodeau is a veteran of the Great War, having been badly gassed in France, and has been ill repeatedly from effects of the poison. He was well liked by neighbors, but was described as highly nervous. During the last two years, following his dismissal from the post office, where he had been employed as a mail-carrier, he had travelled throughout the province as a prospector.

cles here that neither London nor Washington recognize Manchukuo.

Representations had been made to Tokyo by the two countries, along with a request that the Japanese monopoly would violate the Nine-Power Treaty and the "open door" policy and work serious hardships on foreign oil companies.

The Foreign Office, in the summary made public to-day, said Japan's position had been outlined in informal talks held by the Anglo-American embassies nearly three months ago.
Japan asserted the measures would not violate the "open door."

SAY TREATY INAPPLICABLE
Earlier a spokesman for the Foreign Office said the Nine-Power Treaty, guaranteeing the "open door" in China, was "inapplicable to Man-chukuo."

"Various pledges made by Japanese and Manchukuan leaders to maintain the 'open door' in Manchuria were unilateral declarations lacking the binding force of treaties," he continued, "and hence may be withdrawn at any time."

Thus he indicated protests by Great Britain and the United States against a Manchukuan oil monopoly would do them little good. Both claimed violations of the Nine-Power Treaty.

NO ONE BETTER
Of Haig Mr. Lloyd-George says the

"It is a sad reflection," he wrote, seeking re-election.

Sinclair charged that forces back-

The Democratic nominee also as-

APPEAL COURT HEARS INDIAN

Enesa's three brothers stayed close beside him because Enesa was downhearted, Joseph said.

In the afternoon of May 23 the brothers made repairs to a fence near Spence's Bridge, B.C., he testified, and, after agreeing to take Enesa to Merritt the next day, they decided to return to Chief Billy's house on the reserve. It was quite dark, Joseph said.

This led to the meeting with Glosborne and Carr on the reserve that night.

Joseph testified that as they came to the house, they saw Glosborne carrying a flashlight and going very fast, and that Glosborne said, "I want Enesa."

Richardson, the witness stated, answered, "Who sent you?" to which Glosborne allegedly replied, "Mr. Barber" (Indian Agent A. H. Barber of Merritt).

Joseph stated Richardson then said,
"If you want Enesa we will deliver him to you to-morrow."

DREW GUN
"There and then, he (Glosborne) reached out to take hold of Enesa," Joseph testified. "He put his light down-on-the-ground. He reached in his rear pocket and pulled out a small gun. He handled it with both hands, was likely loading it. I heard a noise the report of a gun, and after that I don't remember any more."

The Indians were just "standing there" at the time, Joseph stated in answer to a question of Mr. Justice
A. E. McPhillips, and they did not have any sticks or weapons.

Joseph is also charged with the murder of Glosborne, but he has not yet been tried because of injuries suffered on the night the constables were slain. He has been deaf, but has partially recovered his hearing.

NO BIG LOTTERY FOR NEW YORK

Associated Press
New York, Oct. 25.—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia yesterday vetoed a bill which has caused more uproar in New York than any other municipal proposal in years—the measure providing for a city lottery.

for raising funds for unemployment relief—were the lawyers' objections and not those of city clergymen. Without discussing moral grounds, the mayor vetoed the bill because he doubted the legality of such a proposal. Switzerland has been manufacturing paper since the first factory was established at Basel in 1440. Industrial production in Poland is above that of a year ago.

NEW TAXES IN MANITOBA CITIES

Winnipeg, Oct. 25.—Municipal taxation of all publicly-owned property and enterprises, which compete with those privately-owned, was urged yesterday by Winnipeg spokesmen before a special committee of the Manitoba Legislature investigating tax exemption.

The city also suggested the committee might study tax exemptions given railways with the objective of relieving hard pressed municipalities. It was said by the city representatives that were it not for tax exemptions Winnipeg would have received $76,415 a year from taxes on provincially-owned utilities, where it received only $6,376 in 1934. Magistrate Peterson, Winnipeg city clerk, reported Toronto collected more than $1,250,000 a year in taxes levied on railways and Vancouver about $600,000 from the Canadian Pacific Railway alone.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—It was announced today by Finance Minister E. M. Rhodes that William R. Kinsman, K.C., of Regina, recently appointed official receiver for Regina under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, would have his jurisdiction enlarged to cover the other districts in the province of Saskatchewan. This, it was stated, would enable him to act in an advisory capacity to district official receivers.

SUIT FOLLOWS WOMAN'S DEATH

Calgary, Oct. 25.—A civil action seeking $40,000 damages was started in the supreme court of Alberta here yesterday by the administrator of the estate of Mrs. Lorna Edith Clemes of Toronto, who, along with two men, was fatally injured in an automobile crash here August 19. The defendants include R. C. Phillips of Regina, who was committed for trial on a manslaughter charge following the fatal mishap; Arthur Woodhouse, Dodge Brothers of Canada Limited and the Chrysler Corporation of Canada Limited. Phillips was alleged to have been the driver of a car which collided with one driven by William Parrish of Calgary, and in which Mrs. Clemes was a passenger. The action, it was stated, is on behalf of Mrs. Clemes' husband and her two young daughters. She was received a bequest from her father, on prior to her death and would have received bequest from her father, on his death, of about $60,000, according to the statement of claim.

Argentine Crop Now Satisfactory

Associated Press
Buenos Aires, Oct. 25.—The Argentine Agricultural Statistics Bureau reported the wheat crop satisfactory today, but belated frost may develop midweek. The Finance Ministry determined to help the wool producers by buying their drafts from the purchasers at sale prices to be fixed by the exchange bureau, less 5 per cent to go into a fund to cover possible losses.

STUDENTS WANT BEER

Toronto, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A vigorous row developed yesterday at the University of Toronto when a group of students from the School of Applied Science threatened to burn all available copies of the student newspaper, The Varsity, because it carried an editorial denouncing beverage room sale of beer. Spokesmen for the engineering students declared: "We are going to have our beer whether The Varsity likes it or not."

DIPLOMATIC JOBS NOT ALL SOFT

Washington, D.C., Oct. 25.—If anyone thinks diplomatic posts are all soft, consider the job taken over by Frederick Tomerby Hubbard, soon to leave as minister to Liberia. He is relieving John Hammond MacEachron, who has contracted malaria and must leave the country. The last minister to Liberia, Charles E. Mitchell, died there. One year is regarded as a long term there, compared with three years in most posts. And in this happy climate condition at Monrovia, Mr. Hubbard is supposed to try to do something to help Liberia eradicate slavery and peonage.

British Consider Egypt Protest

Premier Yehia Says Acting
High Commissioner Interfered in Affairs

Canadian Press
London, Oct. 25.—Reports from Cairo indicating an Anglo-Egyptian diplomatic incident has arisen as an indirect result of the continued illness of King Fuad of Egypt were before government authorities today. The incident caused strained relations between the British Residency in Egypt and Premier Abdel Fattah Yehia Pasha. The Premier accused Maurice Peterson, Acting High Commissioner for Great Britain in Egypt, of attempting improper interference in Egypt's home politics. Sir Miles Lampson, High Commissioner, is at present on leave. The Egyptian constitution does not provide for a regent in the event of the king being incapacitated.

CONSULTED LONDON
According to reports from Cairo, Yehia Pasha sought the advice of Mr. Peterson in connection with the situation arising from King Fuad's illness. Mr. Peterson consulted the British Government and advised the Premier to appoint a new chief of the royal cabinet as liaison official between the king, the cabinet and the residency. This post has been unfilled since 1931. The advice proved unpopular to the Egyptian authorities and the appointment of Yehia Pasha or interference by Mr. Peterson followed. It was further denied Yehia Pasha had sought British counsel.

URGES AID FOR PEACE EFFORTS

Premier MacDonald Says Britain Showed Way For Disarmament

Canadian Press
London, Oct. 25.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in his first address since he returned from his vacation in Canada and Newfoundland, urged the world to follow the outlook for world peace "rather discouraging," but asserted "we can get peace in our time if we have an intelligent population backing up our efforts." A distinguished audience at the Peace Society heard the Prime Minister say Great Britain had held to her determination to advance disarmament by keeping her navy below treaty limits "until the conclusion was plainly written in front of us." Through the tripartite naval negotiations going on here among representatives of Britain, the United States and Japan, he pointed out that "Britain could have gone in for more building" under the Washington and London naval pacts. "But we decided we would wait," he said. "Our deliberate purpose was to show what the example of one nation would mean in the advancement of disarmament." British policy had been changed, Mr. MacDonald explained, because "in the world-to-day example alone is not going to advance peace very quickly." "Disarmament will never produce great results," he said, "until statesmen of the world produce more goodwill and a more firm desire for peace."

CHURCH RIGHTS ARE DEFENDED

Archbishop Diaz of Mexico Replies to Statements of Calles

Mexico City, Oct. 25.—While one Mexican state closed its churches and forbade priests to perform marriages and baptisms, Archbishop Pascual Diaz yesterday evening issued a denial that Catholics were guilty of sedition. He was replying to charges of former President Plutarco Elias Calles that Catholics planned a subversive movement and were organized to combat the government. He said Catholics "are innocent of any crime of sedition," and that the only activities in which archbishops and bishops had been engaged in were undertaken "in defense of the constitutional rights of the Catholics." The governor of Chihuahua yesterday ordered all churches closed, and withdrew permission for priests to perform various functions such as marriages and baptisms.

BOY IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Canadian Press
Moncton, N.B., Oct. 25.—One child was killed, another suffered a fracture of the collar bone, and eleven others received superficial injuries when an automobile driven by Leo Bourque, seventeen, overturned near here yesterday. Roderick McCale, twelve, lost his life when the machine turned over. Francis Cassie, eleven, was taken to a hospital with a broken collar bone and other hurts.

Resuscitation Cases Reported

Toronto Professor Says
Human Beings So Treated Become Idiots

Toronto, Oct. 25.—Raising the dead is no great feat, in the opinion of Professor Velyien E. Henderson, chief of the Department of Pharmacology at the University of Toronto, but is a dangerous practice when applied to human beings. Dr. Henderson revealed university research workers frequently had restored to life animals apparently dead for as long as eight minutes, not as a trick to raise them from the dead, but because success of experiments often depended on the subject remaining alive. Animals such as dogs and cats, he said, had frequently been restored after overdoses of anaesthetics apparently had killed them. The same method of restoration, he declared, had been applied to human beings killed by carbon monoxide gas poisoning, but the subjects subsequently became idiots. "We get these carbon monoxide cases," he said, "but the brain has been impaired and, in this respect, this tendency becomes more and more pronounced." He recalled in particular one case in which a person had been restored from what appeared to be absolute death. "This person was apparently brought back from a state that might be described as death. For the next day or two the patient looked fairly well, but the brain had been affected, and from then on he became more and more of an idiot, and had to be confined to an asylum." The doctor explained: "The brain cells cannot stand the lack of oxygen (involved in death) and rapidly degenerate."

STUDENTS ARE FOR LIBERTY

Edmonton, Oct. 25.—"If the churches... have failed in their mission they cannot blame it on the university," Glen Shortcliffe, University of Alberta student, charged at a meeting of students here yesterday evening in answer to recent allegations by city pastors that the university is deriding the Bible. The assertion was made when the students met to consider a debate on the question: "Resolved that this house deplores the increasing tendency of the university authorities to invade the personal liberties of the student." An overwhelming vote for the affirmative was returned. Shortcliffe declared that "the public cannot expect the university to take over the functions of the police, clergy or parents. The university should be concerned with the moral or physical development of students, but remain strictly an academic institution." He charged that "let the church look within its own doors to discover the reasons for its failure to hold youth. Such questions are not the concern of the university."

RELIEF AGENT HELD IN OFFICE

Toronto, Oct. 25.—James L. Malcolm, newly appointed York Township relief officer, was held virtually a prisoner in his office yesterday, and was escorted in the evening to his auto by four provincial policemen through a throng of jobless. Councilor Arthur Williams informed the crowd which had besieged the relief office that "everything had been settled to the workers' satisfaction." Mr. Malcolm later maintained, however, that no concessions had been granted the relief recipients who had confined him to his office for hours. Hundreds of jobless gathered before the township office and declared they would hold Malcolm in his office until their demands for improving housing facilities and other concessions were met. The crowd indulged in square dances, accompanied by an accordion player, while they stuck to their posts. When Councilor Williams said better housing facilities would be provided, and other demands met the throng dispersed.

Made King Laugh, Others Cynical

New York, Oct. 25.—A command performance, by the way, is not always a guarantee of future fame. The other evening Al Trahan came back to Broadway after three or four years of comparative obscurity. Before that he had been a headline comedian with every assurance of a great career. He went to London, appeared before King George, and the King laughed out loud. Flushed with triumph, Trahan returned to New York. And Broadway said to him: "Big-timer, are you? Viddy viddy eleven fellah, are you? Made the King laugh, did you? Well, let's see you make us laugh!" And when Trahan appeared after that, Broadway sat on its hands. To-day, as he plays Bach and Chopin, and convulses audiences with his clownings, Trahan would rather not be reminded of the royal guffaw. He prefers the approval of Broadway.

DECADES OF PROGRESS 1895-1904 Victorian Period Closes

The last decade of Queen Victoria's long reign saw business rise from a trough of depression on an advancing wave of prosperity. Canada's century was dawning.

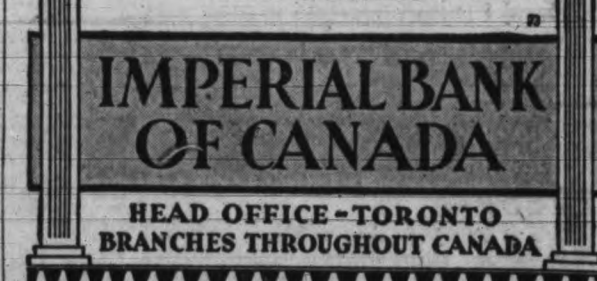

In 1897, the year of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, Mr. D. R. Wilkie, General Manager of the Bank, closed his address to the shareholders at the annual meeting with these words:

"We are meeting today within a few hours of the sixtieth anniversary of Her Most Gracious Majesty's reign. The success we as a bank have met with during that reign calls for an expression of gratitude."

He made no apology for the fact that the year's profits had been the smallest in nine years and gave no evidence of the slightest loss of faith in the future. His judgment was sustained by events, for three years later profits had doubled.

Twenty-one new branches were opened during the ten-year period, making a total of forty-one. Assets increased from thirteen millions in 1894 to thirty and one-half millions in 1904, and the Bank was now represented in all important centres from Montreal to Vancouver. Caution went hand in hand with enterprise. Canadian development was gaining momentum and the Bank was moving with it.

She has become a mere phantom of her true self.

PROMOTION ON RECOMMENDATION

IN SOME QUARTERS THERE APPEARS to be a misconception of the system in operation in this province under which certain students are recommended for promotion in the schools. The impression appears to be among the uninitiated that these recommendations have displaced the examination test, which, of course, they do not. A recent issue of The Teacher reproduces an article by Dr. S. J. Willis, Superintendent of Education, dealing informatively with this subject, which shows that the system has worked out satisfactorily.

Several years ago, Dr. Willis's article says, the Department of Education for British Columbia took the first steps towards making a reduction in the number of various examinations held each year. The first step in this direction was the adoption of a system of limiting the numbers writing the regular High School entrance examinations. When this system was first adopted exemption from that examination was confined to the top sixty per cent of the pupils in the Grade VIII classes of the schools of seven or more divisions. In time the above quota was abolished and exemption from examination greatly extended to embrace all graded and some ungraded elementary schools.

Under the Department's present regulations, principals of all elementary schools as well as teachers of ungraded elementary schools in districts in which High Schools or Superior Schools (continuation schools) are situated may recommend for admission to High Schools all their Grade VIII pupils who have reached, in their opinion, the required standard of scholarship. All such recommendations made on behalf of pupils are not necessarily accepted. As a precautionary measure all recommendations in each district must be carefully scrutinized and approved by an Inspector of Schools and the principal of the High School the recommended pupils propose to attend.

The principal or the teacher making the recommendations must submit for the approval of the Committee on Admissions a complete record of each pupil's standing on tests conducted throughout the year and must justify each recommendation made. The Committee on Admissions pays particular attention to the names on the lower brackets of the recommended list. Any pupil who fails to secure promotion to High School by recommendation has the privilege of writing the regular examination conducted by the Department of Education.

For many years the principals of High Schools have had full authority to promote the students under their charge from grade to grade and a like authority to promote their students to the Senior High Schools has been given to the principals of Junior High Schools established a few years ago.

The system of promotion from elementary to High Schools and from grade to grade in the latter has worked out quite satisfactorily and has probably produced equally as good results as those formerly obtained by means of written examinations conducted at considerable expense and with a great deal of extra work for the officials of the Department of Education. No serious complaints have been registered with that Department as to the lack of fitness for High School work of the pupils being admitted from the elementary schools under the promotion system now in force.

JAPAN AND MANCHURIA

IT IS THE PART OF IRONY OF THE Japanese position in Manchuria that the more the Japanese develop it the more Chinese it will become. Mr. Wilfred Hindle advances this contention and gives his reasons in an article in The Asiatic Review. He reminds us that before the building of the Chinese Eastern Railway the population of Manchuria was reckoned to be about 16,000,000; to-day it is more than 30,000,000. Of the increase, 15,000,000 is due to Chinese immigration, which from 1928 to 1931 reached a rate of about a million a year. Harbin, a village before the railway came, is now a city of more than 400,000.

If and when Japan develops Manchurian communications and natural resources, the same causes will produce the same result, Mr. Hindle points out. Migration will flow from an over-populated country to a country under-populated and expanding. Even were the former rate of Chinese immigration not to be exceeded, the Chinese population of Manchuria would then soon be beyond the control of a much larger army of occupation than the large army Japan now has there.

It is thus obvious that Japan has caught a Tartar in Manchuria. National pride, of course, would make it impossible for her to let go immediately and entirely. But Mr. Hindle argues that it would be to her interest to loosen her grip a little before the Naval Conference and the withdrawal from the League of Nations in 1935 give her more than enough occupation for her hands elsewhere. He then proceeds:

"Any political or economic loss she might sustain would be more than compensated by gain in other directions. American goodwill is worth more than raw materials for war industries, and China's present large, and future immense, market are worth more than the hypothetical market in Manchuria which, if present conditions continue, may never be created.

"It is inevitable in geography and ethnography that Manchuria should one day be reunited with China. Japan has everything to lose by hindering that reunion and everything to gain by assisting it."

"She can assist it, too, without loss of 'face.' Manchukuo is in fact an independent entity. It would not be difficult to proceed from that formal independence to a real independence in which legitimate Japanese interests could be safeguarded; and thence to the creation of a new state of China and Manchuria in which a Japanese industrial, commercial, and administrative skill could fittingly co-operate. Mr. Hindle says there are signs in the constitution and character of Manchukuo that such a consummation was not reckoned impossible, and he concludes with the suggestion that, perhaps, after all, some Japanese have supreme political wisdom.

ANOTHER ISSUE ARISING

MR. E. W. BEATTY, PRESIDENT OF the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, continues to argue that the only effective solution for the Dominion's railway problem is unification of control. His latest statement takes the form of a reply to some observations made by Hon. C. P. Fullerton, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Canadian National Railways, recently at Halifax, one of which was that Mr. Beatty's estimate of an annual saving of $75,000,000 under his plan was altogether too high, that the maximum saving would not be more than $15,000,000. Mr. Fullerton also said, incidentally, that all that could be saved by amalgamation could be saved by co-ordination—if the railways honestly co-ordinated their efforts. Mr. Beatty sticks to his original statement.

An act of the Canadian Parliament prohibits the amalgamation of the two railroads and until that act is changed the proposal is impossible. But a new aspect of the situation may force itself upon the two transportation systems before very long in the form of outside competition. A Union Pacific streamlined train has just crossed the United States from Los Angeles to New York in a trifle under fifty-seven hours. During one part of the journey this tube-shaped flyer set up a world record by travelling 120 miles an hour, while on other stretches, due to traffic conditions, it was necessary to drive her at less than half that rate. The train is 376 feet long and is powered by a 900-horsepower Diesel engine. Her owners would have been quite satisfied with her performance if she had required sixty hours for the trip. She took three hours less.

The point which may already have occurred to the executives of the two Canadian railway systems is what will be their position if, for instance, Seattle is brought within fifty-five or sixty hours of New York. Travellers making the transcontinental journey will not feel like spending four days on a Canadian train if they can be carried the same distance in two and one-third days. In effect, the streamlined train may put the old-fashioned equipment on the junk pile. Moreover, it combines the element of speed with the utmost economy in operation. And it also represents the reply of the railways to the threat from the air.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER

SHRAPNEL WHICH ENTERED HIS brain nearly twenty years ago has caused the death of one, James Fisher, auxiliary postman of Haylane, Ombresley, Worcestershire, England. Fisher died in Worcester Infirmary and at the inquest it was announced that he enlisted in August, 1914, and was wounded soon afterwards. A pathologist said pieces of shrapnel had produced epileptic fits and the verdict went in accordance with the medical evidence.

The man was forty years of age. He was destined to die of an injury he suffered half his life-time ago. This is to suggest that if there shall be another war, those who are scarred by it will not last twenty years; they will be scarred one minute and dead the next. Yet, in spite of what the agonizing years between 1914 and 1918 should have taught the people of the world, there are those who scoff at disarmament as if it, and not devastating war, were the curse of the world.

When will an international public tell those who govern it that it will not permit policies which provoke international strife?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

A CHILLY PROSPECT
The Hamilton Herald.

It was not till the new generation (of Ontario Liberals) had grown up that knew not Boss nor Stratton nor any of the former Liberal group that the revolution was possible that hurled the Ferguson-Henry-Price combination from power. It will take a new generation of Conservatives to grow up who will be independent enough to recognize the errors of their predecessors and to establish themselves on new and ethical principles of administration before the present generation of Liberals will have any serious opposition. All the more need for the Liberals to see that they do not fall into the errors that have deprived the Conservatives of office.

TOO TENDER TO THE CRIMINAL
The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

Mr. Taschereau is absolutely right when he argues that the criminal world has undergone radical changes to adapt itself to modern conditions, while the law has stood still for too long, with the result that an increasing number of offenders are able to evade their just deserts and to that extent encouragement is given to lawlessness. Years ago, British justice was very properly solicited in seeing to it that the accused persons received absolutely fair play, because the law at that time was rough and ready, experiencing little concern for humane scruples. To-day, however, if the law errs, it is on the side of over-tenderness for the guilty; while the wrongdoers have become immeasurably more bold and more vicious. The gangster, the dope-fiend and the kidnaper are products of our modern civilization.

MAY LEARN SOMETHING
The Ottawa Citizen.

British public opinion is gradually crystallising itself. The determination to correct conditions of artificial scarcity in an age of plenty is growing. Perhaps without quite knowing how the readjustment is to be made, when the British people are ready to speak, they will speak again with one voice. Parliament will be elected with instructions to do something about it. The responsibility will be upon statesmen to find out how that something can be done. Canada can benefit by keeping in touch with the process of fermentation in Britain. The visits of Messrs. King and Lapointe is most timely.

CHEESE

I COULD tell by the look of animal cunning on the two faces as they came through the oak woods that some devilry had been afoot next door.

"Look," said the little girl from next door, holding aloft her brother's grimy hand. "You see that finger, the big one? It's sore, isn't it?"

"Sore," said her brother, but he seemed to be happy about it.

"Till my it's sore," said his sister. "And why? You'll never guess."

"Mice," said her brother.

"Let me tell you, Mice, yes, but that's not the kind of it. We got mice at our house, you know. Oh, yes, they're thick, running over everything, climbing up ladies' legs and making them scream something fierce. We like mice, don't we?"

"Yes and soft," her brother agreed heartily.

"So my mother she set a lot of mice traps all over our house."

"Cheese," said he, smacking his lips.

"He means my mother set the traps with cheese. And, gosh, but do we like cheese? Yes, we like cheese, but they won't let us have it. They say cheese makes children dream too much at night, so we can't have any."

I began to suspect the ghastly truth.

"Yes, so we didn't want the mice to eat the cheese and get caught in the traps, because if they get caught in the traps they get dying, and when they get dying they can't run around any more and up the ladies' legs and all, can they? And besides, we like cheese and we don't like it wasted on mice. It's a shame to waste good cheese on mice, I said to my mother, and my mother said it's a shame."

"Ho, ho," said her brother, holding up his sore finger.

"Yes, so we fixed that all right," said she. "We took the cheese off the traps and ate it. We ate of it all one after the other. It's easy to get cheese off traps, if you know how. I found that out quickly enough. I just got my brother to put his finger in the trap, and snap! The trap went off. Then you can take the cheese off quite easily. But it's hard if you haven't got a brother to put his finger in, I suppose. But my mother keeps saying, I can't understand, she says, how the mice get the cheese out of the traps and never get caught."

Her brother held his finger aloft again with a triumphant look, like one who displays the honorable scars of battle.

QUESTION

THE OTHER night I went to the Federated Council of Youth's rally and what surprised me most was to see how many older people were there. They had gone in large numbers, like me, to see for themselves, if they could, what the next generation was thinking about. The answer came quickly from a youngster named Don Smith, who is one of these born orators with a curious gift for imagery and graphic phrase. "We," he said, "are the Unwanted Generation. We came too late to enjoy the orgy of profits that ended with 1929, and too soon to enjoy the best period of prosperity. Too late and too soon." There was a terrible bitterness in it, a disillusionment which your generation never felt at any age, when it was out playing football or making love, and letting economics take care of themselves.

But our Youth, if young Smith can speak for it, is not satisfied with bitterness and disillusionment. If it can organize, he says, it can bring from the old men who control our affairs an opportunity to live decently and work in a country which will shortly belong to it, instead of you (Turn to Page 16, Col. 6)

COLUMBUS
To-day the sailor goes on ways as sure
As those of some familiar street at home,
For him the sea has lost that old allure,
Which once to brave hearts called Through wind and foam.
The long of danger mingled with the good
Of rest and ease is left to the old sailor
Out ways unknown to find a continent
Beyond the deeps at which the boldest Quailed.

Ah! When was ever man as brave as he
Who ventured with his flimsy caravel
Upon the untold waters of a sea
Whose outer verge no soul on earth Could touch?
For him to meet those weeks of awful test
For him to tread on glory's topmost crest!

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
October 26, 1909

(From The Times Files)

That the docks and warehouses to be erected on the site on James Bay acquired by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, the property lying between the old custom house and the Alaska Steamship Company's wharves are to excel in size and general magnitude any facilities of the kind now located in the inner harbor of Victoria, is apparent from an inspection of the official plans which are on file in the office of the registrar of titles in this city.

B. H. Francis, assistant chief engineer of the Marine and Fisheries Department of the Dominion Government, has been in the city a few days and is leaving this evening on the steamer Leabro to inspect the new work which has been done during the present season on this coast.

With the advantage of ten pounds per man at least in weight, a smart three-quarter line, a little science, many mistakes of poor heading and wretched goal shooting the J.B.A. rugby fifteen opened the season yesterday, providing the holiday attraction in a match with the McGill College team from Vancouver, which the local sporting aggregation defeated by seven to nil.

Alderman Turner will run for mayor at the approaching municipal elections. While this announcement will not come in the nature of a surprise, it is the first time that such intention on the part of the alderman has been made public.

The Victoria Ladies' Musical Club will hold the first concert of the season in the hall of the Carnegie Library at 8 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

BOY SCOUTS TO AID SANTA

Will Operate Toy Shop Again This Year

The Boy Scouts of the Victoria district will again assist Santa Claus in his distribution of toys, by operating their Scout Toy Shop.

"It is hoped that everyone will again help by letting us have all the broken toys, as well as any for which they have no further use. A portion of our shop will be divided into a repair and paint department as in former years and Boy Scouts will do the work under expert supervision," says a notice issued by the Scouts.

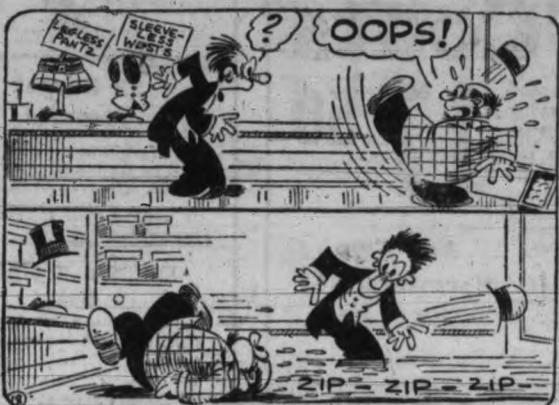

"People having toys and wishing them called for may telephone 6140 and someone will pick them up. In addition to this scouts will be around collecting individually, and it is hoped will meet with the fullest co-operation from the homes at which they call. This is an inter-troop competition to see which troop is able to collect the highest number of toys.

"Last year over 10,000 toys went through the Boy Scout Toy Shop. This year we hope to get even a larger number, and to do this we need your help. And one way in which you can do this is by letting us have your toys as soon as possible, as we have a great deal of work ahead of us. And as there are only two months until Christmas we need the assistance of everyone.

"To those on the toy shop committee, there will be a meeting in the district headquarters on Monday, October 29 at 8 p.m."

Belgium Tries "New Deal" In Attempt To Fight Way Out Of Financial Morass

By MORRIS GILBERT

Brussels, Oct. 26. — Will Belgium, now embarking on a "Roosevelt experiment," aiming to free frozen credits and restore badly battered national industry, be first of the Gold Bloc countries to desert?

Will Belgium be forced to link its money with the pound sterling instead of continuing to live with the French franc, as at present—despite the solemn oaths of statesmen that the nation will cling to gold?

These problems are driving Belgium financiers and politicians "screwy," now that Count de Broqueville, Belgian premier, has announced a national programme which closely resembles, in a smaller way, the monetary tactics of the New Deal in America.

Belgium's finance minister, who rejoices in the euphonious name of Mr. Sap, has just organized a national Deal experiment—rises from the fact that when Count de Broqueville demanded "full powers" to save Belgium's finances, he ordained that banks could no longer act at the same time as custodians of people's money and as business banks.

Belgians see in this a step toward the guarantee of deposits which has done so much in the United States to end the reign of banking interests.

Belgium, finally, is taking a leaf from the Roosevelt book in adopting an experimental attitude toward the crisis which faces the nation.

"Try it," they are saying, in regard to their Managed Money plan. "If it doesn't work, discard it. But above all, do something—don't sit back and do nothing."

That, according to observers here, is pure Rooseveltism.

FACE FUND SHORTAGE

But Belgium apparently falls short of the New Deal in that the De Broqueville cabinet may not possess funds sufficient to pump new "credit centre." Its purpose is similar to America's Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"UNFREEZING" IS AIM

Its object is to rescue industry by unfreezing the advances already made to it by Belgian banks which recently were looking forward to nothing short of a moratorium. As was originally the case with America's RFC, new credits were to be made merely to the big industries, railroads, metal works, banks, etc.

Then, the idea was, the money would drift down through the populace, relieving the tension from above.

But—as in the United States—this procedure seems in Belgium to be insufficient, and already small industry and petty commerce are demanding their share of the new supplies of loanable funds.

life into industry while still holding fast to the gold standard, as Belgium is pledged to do.

Perhaps the expansion of state credit aimed at by Monsieur Sap's credit centre will be enough to revive the country's economic circumstances; or to stave off trouble until "something" happens in the world to cause restoration of confidence and prosperity.

If not, Belgium might be forced to choose the alternative of attaching its money to the British sterling bloc, it is suggested.

Meanwhile, as a prisoner of the gold bloc and at the same time plunging into the "new" Rooseveltian economics, the Belgian franc is described by one commentator as "rolling like a pebble in a torrent."

Relief Lists Down But Cost Is Same

Unemployment Bill in B.C. For September Is $495,000, Same as Last Year, Although Number of Persons Receiving Aid Declines Twelve Per Cent; Increase in Allowances Is Cause

Although B.C. relief lists dropped to 77,671 in September, the lowest figure since May, 1933, the overall cost to all governments concerned was the same as in September last year, when 88,376 persons were dependent on relief.

This situation was revealed in the monthly statistics released by the provincial relief department today.

The figures give an insight into the current protest on the reduction in the Dominion government grant to a lump sum of $150,000 a month.

This sum was arrived at after consideration of last winter's relief accounts, and was based on an anticipated reduction in the amount of unemployment.

However, due to an increase in the allowances for food and dependents early this year, the decrease in cost has not kept pace with the drop in the relief lists.

The September figures show a drop of twelve per cent in the total number of persons aided, but the cost remains at a round figure of $475,000.

The $150,000 federal grant, taken on an average of costs for the winter months, amounts to roughly a forty per cent reduction in the federal share of relief. Thus it will be seen that even without the increase in allowances the slash would have hit the province hard.

The September relief total of 77,671 is segmented into 16,141 heads of families, 45,294 dependents, 11,309 single men and women, and 4,927 in camps.

Of the resident heads of families the province is responsible for 4,537 of its own and 1,601 in defaulting municipalities, or a total of 6,138.

The municipalities contribute to 8,217 of their own. The others are classed as transient families, of which the province administers 253 of its own and 223 in bankrupt municipalities and the municipalities administer 1,291.

The September total was 2,000 below August.

NO SITE FOR BOATHOUSE

Despite its willingness to assist a worthy cause the Oak Bay Council has advised yesterday it had not the legal right to permit construction of a boathouse on the lot chosen at Shoal Bay by the Vancouver Island Boats Association.

In the conveyance which gave the lot to the municipality, the owner of a half interest stipulated the municipality should not permit construction of other than ornamental buildings.

The municipal lawyers advised the council it was their opinion that ratepayers might restrain the council from permitting use of the lot for any other purpose than that stipulated.

The association, which sought a boathouse for the Shoal Bay lifeboat, has been advised of the council's position.

The Young People's Society of the Equinault United Church were entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Anderson, 3435 Cook Street, on Wednesday evening. A short business meeting was opened with a prayer by Rev. Mr. Anderson. The next practice of the play "Poly in Politics" which will be staged on November 16 at 8 p.m., will be at 7:30 on Saturday night.

Many games and contests were played and enjoyed by all the winners being: Miss Johnston, Mr. Young and Mrs. Hughes, and Mr. Corless. Delightful solos were rendered by Miss Morgan, Mrs. Anderson, and Mr. Anderson. As the close of the evening, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Anderson. An enjoyable time was had by all those present and Mr. Young extended the thanks of all to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

Dr. Willis also presented the Major F. V. Longstaff Prize of $50, donated by Major F. V. Longstaff for the student obtaining the highest standing in Latin and continuing at the University of British Columbia. It was won by Elizabeth C. Rigby, but was by reversion to Beatrice M. Hastings, now in attendance at U.B.C.

Relief Lists Down But Cost Is Same

Unemployment Bill in B.C. For September Is $495,000, Same as Last Year, Although Number of Persons Receiving Aid Declines Twelve Per Cent; Increase in Allowances Is Cause

Although B.C. relief lists dropped to 77,671 in September, the lowest figure since May, 1933, the overall cost to all governments concerned was the same as in September last year, when 88,376 persons were dependent on relief.

This situation was revealed in the monthly statistics released by the provincial relief department today.

The figures give an insight into the current protest on the reduction in the Dominion government grant to a lump sum of $150,000 a month.

This sum was arrived at after consideration of last winter's relief accounts, and was based on an anticipated reduction in the amount of unemployment.

However, due to an increase in the allowances for food and dependents early this year, the decrease in cost has not kept pace with the drop in the relief lists.

The September figures show a drop of twelve per cent in the total number of persons aided, but the cost remains at a round figure of $475,000.

The $150,000 federal grant, taken on an average of costs for the winter months, amounts to roughly a forty per cent reduction in the federal share of relief. Thus it will be seen that even without the increase in allowances the slash would have hit the province hard.

The September relief total of 77,671 is segmented into 16,141 heads of families, 45,294 dependents, 11,309 single men and women, and 4,927 in camps.

Of the resident heads of families the province is responsible for 4,537 of its own and 1,601 in defaulting municipalities, or a total of 6,138.

The municipalities contribute to 8,217 of their own. The others are classed as transient families, of which the province administers 253 of its own and 223 in bankrupt municipalities and the municipalities administer 1,291.

The September total was 2,000 below August.

NO SITE FOR BOATHOUSE

Despite its willingness to assist a worthy cause the Oak Bay Council has advised yesterday it had not the legal right to permit construction of a boathouse on the lot chosen at Shoal Bay by the Vancouver Island Boats Association.

In the conveyance which gave the lot to the municipality, the owner of a half interest stipulated the municipality should not permit construction of other than ornamental buildings.

The municipal lawyers advised the council it was their opinion that ratepayers might restrain the council from permitting use of the lot for any other purpose than that stipulated.

The association, which sought a boathouse for the Shoal Bay lifeboat, has been advised of the council's position.

The Young People's Society of the Equinault United Church were entertained at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Anderson, 3435 Cook Street, on Wednesday evening. A short business meeting was opened with a prayer by Rev. Mr. Anderson. The next practice of the play "Poly in Politics" which will be staged on November 16 at 8 p.m., will be at 7:30 on Saturday night.

Many games and contests were played and enjoyed by all the winners being: Miss Johnston, Mr. Young and Mrs. Hughes, and Mr. Corless. Delightful solos were rendered by Miss Morgan, Mrs. Anderson, and Mr. Anderson. As the close of the evening, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Anderson. An enjoyable time was had by all those present and Mr. Young extended the thanks of all to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

LARGE CROWD AT CARNIVAL

Hudson's Bay Employees Hold Halloween Dance at Crystal Garden

Over 350 people attended the Hudson's Bay Beaver Club Halloween dance at the Crystal Garden last evening at the Crystal Garden and were by all who attended to be one of the most successful dances that the Beaver Club has ever sponsored.

Music for the dancers was furnished by Len Acre's six-piece orchestra and the dancers called for several encore numbers and many waltzes were featured on the programme. Mr. and Mrs. W. Watson, local manager of the Hudson's Bay store, and several of the department managers were present and entered thoroughly into the carnival spirit.

The Crystal Garden ballroom was decorated with huge black cats and skeletons hanging from the ceiling. At the hour of midnight hundreds of balloons which were released from the ceiling added to the color and serpentine and confetti in great quantities distributed by the floor committee to the dancers, added to the color and gaiety.

During the intermissions two delightful dance numbers were put on, the first by Miss Thelma Stratford and her partner, Mr. John Watt, in an extraordinary adagio dance, which was enthusiastically received by all those present. During the dancing Miss Irene Williams and Mr. Harry Pope most effectively sang "The Very Thought of You."

The orchestra during the evening played "You're Gotta Be a Football Hero," dedicated to the Hudson's Bay football team, which is leading the Wednesday Football League.

Refreshments were served by the management of the Garden and was headed by a Kit Kat ice cream sundae. The very capable committee was under the direction of Harry Watt, who was assisted by the following members of the Beaver Club: Margaret Jeeves, K. Burt, Irene Williams, Alma Carey, B. Fenwick, Messrs. Harold Gallop, George McDonald, Frank Fairhurst, Herbert Doherty, Bernard Atkinson, Frank Gibson, Dick McCullough and "Pat Campbell."

Mrs. J. C. Holley of Victoria, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Forbes Campbell River, caught a fine lot of trout on Lower Campbell Lake on Monday. She reports the fishing is extremely good at present.

Bearing all the marks of success in advance, judging by the demand for tickets, the Revelers' dance to be held this evening at the Empress Hotel, promises to be one of the most enjoyable affairs on the social calendar this season. The very latest dance hits will be played by the orchestra, and many novelties will be featured.

Shaw, Chertaburg, Beach Drive, returned to their homes in Victoria yesterday after spending the summer at the Northern Reef Gold Mining Company, North of Port Macleod. Mr. F. B. Mrs. Pullen is resuming her visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Lieutenant Hugh Pullen and Mrs. Pullen, Dewdney Avenue, Esquimalt.

Her many friends in Victoria were much interested to learn of the success of Miss Catherine M. Clibborn, who headed the British Columbia list in the recent R.N. examinations. ## SINGER CHARMS BIG AUDIENCE

Florence Gunn's Beautifully-trained Voice Heard in Brilliant Recital

By G. J. D.

Florence Gunn, one of Victoria's sopranos, has used a vocal organ to good purpose and in the sphere of her choice has, by dint of hard work and keen study, reached a high place in the art of vocalism. Musical people know what this all means, and anyone who sets out to win achievement, no matter in what musical realm, deserves the support and recognition of their fellows.

So did it seem when Mrs. Gunn, at the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday evening, drew a large and unusually intimate gathering of musical people. That there were many friends present, not only of herself but of her programme associates, Helen Ockenden and Mrs. C. C. Wain, was testified in the numerous floral tributes handed them during the evening.

There was unusually straight-forward, unadorned staging, delightful in its clearness and in the treatment of the music of her well-chosen and contrasting songs. The singer revealed powers of interpretation, born of a good musical insight and a voice of coloratura dimensions of pliability, varying in color and power according to the mood of the song.

There was much to do in the leader group, each of the six numbers was unfolded skilfully and according to the texture of the song. Perhaps the most liked were Chopin's appealing "Mazurka" (Russian), the Polish "Feldensmankel" ("In Summer Fields"). The singer scored much success in these, replying to a recall with "Little Yashka," by Schneider.

In her last group, a miscellany, how reminiscent is the song "Do Not Go, My Love," by Hageman, of the celebrated air "It Is Enough," from the "Elfin" and again in Brown's fine song (the concluding number), "Yesterday and To-day," to Tosti's famous song, "Goodbye." "The Sailor's Wife" (Burleigh), one of her best numbers, was rich and sweet in pathos. "Dedication," by Franz, with its musical atmosphere of beauty and an accompaniment as a tone painting, was invested by the singer with fervor and beautiful phrase, and in her last song, "Lullaby," the singer's extremely beautiful "Lullaby."

Mrs. Clifford Wain acted as accompanist in her own skilful manner. Assisting in the programme was Helen Ockenden, recently back from her studies at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. As this young, gifted pianist will give in the immediate future her own recital, sufficient for the moment to say that she obviously made an excellent impression and received a pronounced recall after her two numbers. (b) "Schero in B Minor" (Chopin). (c) "Etude" No. 1, Liszt, in which she showed admirable pianistic resources.

"The playing of the beautiful Etude was particularly impressive. Her accompaniment number was a Chopin 'Prelude'."

FOUR ACES AND A Joker

Yesterday, cakes were the centre of interest. Big luscious cakes, loaded with the most appetizing icings.
"Four aces and a Joker," Miss Allen said her assembled audience as she made and led five different kinds of cake. If ever five cakes looked more like a perfect hand, they would be hard to find. Ribbon cake, devil's food, butterscotch spice roll, regula-cal speed and in a way that made the most difficult recipe easy. Several of the recipes are given here for those

DEVIL'S FOOD

Two cups of sifted Swans Down cake flour; one teaspoon of baking powder; three-quarters of a teaspoon of salt; a quarter teaspoon of oil; half a cup of butter or other shortening;
one cup of brown sugar, firmly packed; two eggs, well beaten; four squares of Baker's unsweetened chocolate, melted; one teaspoon of vanilla;
one cup of sour milk. Sift the flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and oil and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add half of sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add remaining sugar to eggs, mixing well.
Combine egg and creamed mixtures.
Add chocolate and vanilla. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth.

BUTTERSCOTCH SPICE ROLL

Three-quarters of a cup of sifted Swans Down flour; one teaspoon of cinnamon; a quarter teaspoon of allspice or ginger; four eggs beaten together; three-quarters of a cup of baking powder added to the eggs;
three-quarters of a cup of sifted sugar; a quarter teaspoon of salt.
Place the bowl in place in a double boiler and baking powder over a smaller bowl containing boiling water and with a rotary beater, beat until thick.
Gradually add the sugar and continue to beat. Fold in the flour and spice mixture. Bake in a pan measuring fifteen by ten inches (approximately) and leave in the oven (400 or 450 degrees) for about thirteen minutes.
Cut off the crust, spread with filling and roll.

BUTTERSCOTCH FILLING

salt; two-thirds cup of water; two tablespoons of butter; and one teaspoon of vanilla. Cook for ten minutes until thick and add a quarter

STAGING WARProfessional Models Protest Use of Society Girls at Fashion ShowsAssociated Press.
New York, Oct. 25.—Prize professional mannequins threatened yesterday to "steal the boy friends of the society girls" unless the debutantes stop competing with them as fashion models.
At the end of a protest meeting, they solemnly signed a petition which will be sent to the Junior League, the Fifth Avenue Association and the directors of fashion shows.
Conditions are growing worse every year, and it is time to put our foot down and ask the social girl to stay in her own back yard," said Miss Gertrude L. Mayer. She proposed three courses of action: An appeal for fair play, a picket line on the next fashion show employing society models, or "to fight fire with fire, invade the social sanctum and steal the boy friends of the society girl."
"Looking you over, I don't think it would be hard," she said.
The petition protested that more than 1,000 jobs a year are lost to the working girl by the use of debutantes as models.Crown Prince Is Now ThirteenAssociated Press.
Bucharest, Romania, Oct. 25.— Crown Prince Mihail of Romania spent his thirteenth birthday to-day dismantling an airplane motor belonging to his father, King Carol.
This was done as part of his training for a pilot's license, which he expects to secure at the end of the year.
Among the hundreds of birthday telegrams which he received, the one he treasured most was from his first cousin, Little King Peter of Yugoslavia, whose father's assassination at Marsailles forged new bonds of sympathy between the two boys. Mihail knows he must some day be king again, too.
The crown prince also received a message from his mother, Princess Helen, now in Florence, whom he sees but once a year.A Special Saturday Sale of

For a Permanent

By ALICIA HART

The success of your new fall permanent depends on the condition of your hair, the type of wave you choose and the operator who gives it to you.Dry, lifeless hair doesn't take as good a wave as healthy hair that has an adequate supply of natural oil.
Certain permanents are best for special types of hair. And, as anyone can tell you, an experienced operator who understands the intricacies of proper waving is really a blessing.Generally speaking, whether or not your new wave is flattering is up to you. You are the one to worry about hot oil shampoos (you should have at least six before you make an appointment for a permanent), and also about daily brushing. DecidingTHAT DEPRESSED FEELING being poisoned.What you need is a liver stimulant. Something that goes farther than salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum or roughage, which only move the bowels—ignoring the real

BABIES LOVE REPETITION —
LET THEM LEARN BY ITA mother who reads to her children discovers early how unavoidable are their demands that every word of a story be the same each time she tells or reads it. Even babies come to love the rhythm of their nursery jingles long before they understand the words.
"This one's old."
And this one's young.
And this one has no meat.
This one's gone.
To buy some hay
And this one's over the street."
"This one" over and over again so that the child comes to love it and wait for it and demand to hear it. Nursery rhymes of the "Old Women Who Couldn't Go Home," are excellent soothers. The child repeats and listens, hearing the pleasing words in satisfying repetition and "this thing you know," he is asleep.Wise mothers will make other uses of this recognition of a child's love of repetition. All the little ceremonies of a child's day may be gone through in exactly the same way.

OTHER USES OF REPETITION

When the child is called to the table he may start the chain of pleasingly repetitious acts by going to the toilet, washing his hands,pulling out his chair, adjusting his bib, and waiting to be served.Make each of them a separate act which follows in orderly enjoyable fashion on the heels of the other, mother prompting, "Now what do we do?" and the child rushing eagerly to make it all come about in exactly the same way as before.

WATCH THEIR EYES POP

And to go back to the stories.
Do not be guilty of leaving out a word. Tell the story each time the way it was told before.Watch the children's eyes pop as they wait for and anticipate the big thrill, the big event that makes the story worth telling.If you are a clever mother you will wait just long enough for the child to burst forth with the word, knowing what a joy it is to be a personal part of the story and to personally stimulate the mother to the familiar and long-felt emotion.To-morrow — "Mrs. Eldred Tells

CHAPTER XIX

The cab was traveling along a well-lighted boulevard. Dan Bleeker leaned back against the leather upholstered seat. "You don't think," he said, "that Esther Ordway took a trip in the plane? I don't see why not. Everything certainly points to it."

Griff, who was smoking, did not answer for a moment. Then he asked, "Why do you think she went to all the trouble to take her photographs with her?"

"Because," Bleeker said, "Esther Ordway is none other than Mary Briggs and she knew that the police would recognize her photograph. That's why."

"That, of course," Griff told him, "is a possibility. But at the present time that's all it is. When will you hear the result of the post-mortem performed on Cathay?"

"This is Saturday night," Bleeker said. "I have an idea the doctors are working on the case right now. They should make a report to the district attorney and the coroner before midnight. We probably won't be able to get a copy of that report before we go to press, but we should have it some time in the morning."

"You'll let me know?" asked Griff.

"Certainly. And you think it's important to get hold of Esther Ordway's mail?"

"Yes."

"I hate to do it," Bleeker said. "I've got to put a woman on the spot."

"Have you got one who knows her way about?"

"Yes. Ethel West, my secretary. I'll right up on her toes. She's the sort of girl who can do anything and get away with it."

"You know what she's to do," Griff reminded him. "She's to rent an apartment under the name of Esther Ordway and then instruct the post office to forward her mail from the Elite Apartments to the new address. She'll have to live there a day or two. I don't want her to stay in the apartment too long, though. It's dangerous. She's to stay there until she's got two or three letters and then she can check out. She can put the letters back in the box with a note, 'Opened by mistake, or she can leave another forwarding address back to the Elite Apartments and say nothing about the letters. It depends on what's in them.'

"I don't like it," Bleeker said doggedly.

The criminologist frowned.

"I gathered that you didn't," he said.

"By the way," Bleeker said, "there's one other development we uncovered late this afternoon. We've found the hotel where Cathay was registered."

"Where was it?" Griff inquired.

"The hotel is the Hillcrest and seconds, then remarked irritably, "There's no reason why you can't answer that question, is there?"

"What question?"

"About why you got Decker concealed and when you're going to bring him out in the open."

Griff said slowly, "Bleeker, there's something about this case that we're overlooking, something that's right in our hands. I almost had it for a moment—something was knocking at the door of my consciousness, something that I know already, something that you know already. But we don't, either of us, appreciate its significance. Something that we've been talking about, something that one of us said started my mind on a train of thought that made me feel I was on the verge of getting one of those flashes of mental perspective that we call inspiration."

"Then you interrupted me with that question about Decker. I've told you that I'll let you know when I reach a decision. I haven't reached a decision yet. You're not going to get anywhere by harping on the subject, and when I'm concentrating, don't interrupt me."

"Can't you tell what you were thinking about?" Bleeker asked.

Griff's exclamation was one of extreme irritation.

"Damn it," he said. "I've tried to think back to what was in my mind and all I can think about was that chap Decker and his fear that gangsters were going to rub him out because he'd seen a murder. That's because you imposed Decker on my consciousness and drowned out my thought that was just about to enter my mind. Lots of times the subconscious mind realizes the significance of things. It fits things together better than the conscious mind. Then it tries to give the conscious mind the realization of what it's doing, but I forgot—you're not interested in problems of psychology. You're not concerned with the subconscious thought processes."

"No," Bleeker said with emphasis. "I'm not interested. And I'm aware that, in spite of all your talk, you haven't as yet told me anything about Thomas Decker or why you're keeping him concealed."

Griff's smile was disarming in its frankness.

"That's right," he agreed cordially. "I haven't."

CHAPTER XX

Alice Lorton answered Griff's third ring at the door. She was dressed in pyjamas, slippers, and a kimono. Her wide, innocent blue eyes stared at Griff in startled appraisal, and her lips broke into a smile.

"Oh," she said in a throaty tone. "It's you."

"Yes," Griff said. "I'm sorry I disturbed you, but I've got to ask you a few more questions."

"Come in," she said.

Griff entered the apartment. The windows were open and a mild wind whipped the lace curtains about. Alice Lorton went to the window, closed them, shivered slightly and dropped into an over-stuffed chair, crumpling her feet up in under her.

"What time is it?" she asked.

"Not very late," he told her. "Somewhere around midnight."

"I guess I've just dropped off to sleep," she said and yawned.

Griff took a cigarette case from his pocket, extended it to her. She hesitated for a moment, then took a cigarette. Griff took one and held a match to the tip of the girl's cigarette. Just as the flame illuminated her countenance she said—casually—

"You know Cathay was dead, of course?"

The girl's face stiffened into rigid immobility. She remained perfectly still, the flame from the match blackening the paper tip of the cigarette. She did not inhale the smoke.

Griff watched her with narrowed eyes.

After a moment she sucked a deep inhalation and expelled a cloud of smoke, drew back from the flame of the match and settled down in the chair.

"Who," she asked, "is Cathay?"

"A man in Riverside," Griff said. "To Be Continued"

WILL OPEN NEW RADIO THEATRE

Most Modern Acoustic Equipment Installed in Columbia's Latest Playhouse

Because of the greatly increased requirements of the fall and winter season, the Columbia Broadcasting System has added a second Radio Playhouse to its studio line-up. The new unit, formerly the Avon Theatre, is located in West Forty-fifth Street, just off Times Square, New York, and will be known as the Columbia Forty-fifth Street Radio Playhouse. It will be used for the staging of several large commercial programmes and will accommodate an audience of 750 persons.

The theatre, which was built in 1920, has been extensively remodelled for radio production. It was chosen for its excellent acoustical qualities, its greater perfection, and its location. The installation of a shell stage setting, this shell is flanked by reflecting basses above and at each side of the stage, which project all sound waves to the back wall before they reach the microphones. This process will be the velocity of the sound waves, excessive cross-wall reverberations and dead spots in the studio.

All microphones in the new playhouse will be of the velocity or "ribbon" type and there are thirteen permanent microphone outlets providing for standing or overhead mikes. The stage is flanked by reflecting basses above and at each side of the stage, which project all sound waves to the back wall before they reach the microphones. This process will be the velocity of the sound waves, excessive cross-wall reverberations and dead spots in the studio.

Two unusual features of the control booth are a cathode ray oscilloscope which enables the engineer to check sound volume and quality visually, and a high fidelity broadcast receiver through which programmes may be checked for their quality on the air, as they are broadcast from WABC or any other unit of the network.

ACOUTICS
The acoustical treatment of the playhouse stage makes the theatre a "live end, dead end" type of studio. The stage is the "live" section and the auditorium is the "dead" portion. This is the first time this principle of broadcasting has been applied to a theatre studio.

The stage shell and reflecting baffles are finished in plain white and set as a cyclorama. Several series of stage lights and auxiliary "spots" provide the decorative effects. Among the programmes already scheduled to be broadcast from the Forty-fifth Street Radio Playhouse are: "Music by Gerwyn," Sundays at 7 p.m., P.S.T.; "The Caravan," with Walter O'Keefe, Annette Hanshaw and the Class Lomas Orchestra, Mondays at 7 p.m., P.S.T.; "Everett Marshall's Broadway Varieties," Wednesdays at 5:30 p.m. and the Roxy Revue, Saturdays at 5 p.m., P.S.T.

WHY!

chard produce that exists in this province and the surrounding districts as it does everywhere; because the prices offered to the producers are often below the cost of handling and transporting fruit, milk, vegetables, etc., so that the fruit is left to rot, milk thrown away and vegetables, etc., ploughed under. Then there is driftwood for fuel to be hauled, collected and distributed. Is that done? Perhaps it is. If some of the welfare money could be used in handling, collecting and distributing these surplus foods in the district, employing men and women who are out of work, it might be only a small affair, but at least it would be a step in the right direction.

Saving good food otherwise wasted for those who are lacking nutrition and enabling people to help themselves, but O'Keefe Madden's beer and the speaker's boom soon brought things back to normal. There were a great many fat policemen, too, but they have been weeded out during the last few regimes of skinny commissioners.

Mr. Klein himself it quite thin. He likes fat men; says they're almost all jolly and easily pleased. "If everybody was fat there would be no war," he says, quoting some obscure philosopher. He had hoped Mr. Klein would tell me about some of his customers—that Irwin S. Cobb wears 50 shorts, or that P. H. Sims has 20-inch collar. But Mr. Klein declined. He only revealed the dimensions of his largest customer, a Mr. X—weight, 465 pounds; waist, 70 inches; chest, 64 inches; collar, 22 inches.

THE WORST COMPETITOR
Many of Mr. Klein's customers are clients of Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. They go to Professor O'Brien in the hope that he can spare them the necessity of trading any more at the Fat Men's Shop.

What is meant is that Philadelphia Jack, who met and slaughtered many a good fighter twenty-five years ago, now is in the flesh-reduction game. His gymnasium is on Broadway, and from the big street comes most of his clientele—stage folk who have to guard their figures, chorus girls with bulges instead of curves. Big businessmen from Wall Street, operatic stars and society people work out there too. The professor has had considerable social prestige ever since he and Major Anthony J. Drezel Biddle used to travel around the country organizing boys' Bible classes.

Major Biddle would make a little talk about how Christ was an athlete, and then the Major and Philadelphia Jack would spar a couple of rounds, and the boys would sign up for the new kind of two-fisted Christianity. Those were the days when Teddy Roosevelt was boxing in the White House and various big men of the Social Register were scrapping democratic left hooks with pugilists hired not to hit too hard.

Professor O'Brien, who still is straight and trim, is said because business men do not want to box any more. They will put on silly rubber garments and work themselves half to death on trick machines. But they will not don the gloves. They seem to realize that the professor enjoys nothing so much as socking millionaires—in a nice, friendly way, of course.

Lives Off Fat Men
Does This Merchant

By PAUL HARRISON
New York, Oct. 25.—It is surprising that there are so many fat men in Manhattan. Scarcely anybody seems to go in for gargantuan dining habits any more, and there are a great many New Yorkers who scarcely eat at all, the employment situation being what it is.

Nevertheless there are a lot of fat men, and thousands of them buy their clothing from Sigmond Klein. Mr. Klein is the proprietor of the Fat Men's Shop, which is down on Third Avenue and pretty far out of the way for overseas customers to go. Many of them don't go; they just telephone their orders. Others trade by mail from places as distant as Germany and Spain.

Klein started his store there more than forty years ago because it was close to the Bowery, and the Bowery was then the headquarters of bartenders and beer garden hangers. Prohibition brought an alarming letup in business.

Major Biddle would make a little talk about how Christ was an athlete, and then the Major and Philadelphia Jack would spar a couple of rounds, and the boys would sign up for the new kind of two-fisted Christianity. Those were the days when Teddy Roosevelt was boxing in the White House and various big men of the Social Register were scrapping democratic left hooks with pugilists hired not to hit too hard.

SCOTLAND WILL PLAY ENGLAND

Teams Are Announced For International Football Match on October 31

London, Oct. 26.—The line-up for the English Football League and Scottish Football League teams, to meet at Stamford Bridge here October 31, was completed yesterday in London and Glasgow.

It is the third interleague fixture of the season, England and Scotland being victors in the previous matches. So the Stamford Bridge engagement decides the leadership. In the first match the English League defeated the Irish 6 to 0; in the second the Scottish defeated the Irish 3 to 1.

THE TEAMS
The English League will field the same eleven that defeated Wales 4 to 0 in an international fixture at Cardiff three weeks ago. The teams are as follows:

English League—Hibbs (Birmingham), goal; Cooper (Derby) and Hapgood (Aston), backs; Britton (Everton), Barker (Derby) and Gray (Manchester City), half-backs; Matthews (Stoke), Bowden (Aston), (Bolton) and Brock (Manchester City), forwards.

Scottish League—Kenway (Coltish), goal; Anderson (Hearts) and McGonigle (Celtic), backs; Macneil (Hearts), Simpson (Rangers) and Herd (Hearts), half-backs; Main (Rangers), McMenamy (Motherwell), MacCalloch (Hearts), Napier (Celtic) and Johnstone (Hearts), forwards.

But it is certainly true that one or the other of these self-styled Britishers has enough courage of conviction to quit stepping and take up a challenge which has now been issued three times in your valued paper. I look upon this movement as a dangerously misleading piece of tomfoolery, besides being calculated to bring ridicule on British character, and I am willing to attempt publicly to justify my belief.

If Mr. Abraham or any of his friends in Israel, have, as I have reason to believe they claim to have, a corner in British-pluck, now is the time to speak or to forever hold their peace!

CALGARY MAY HAVE HOCKEY

Three Backers Are Ready to Sponsor Team in North-western League
Calgary, Oct. 26.—A meeting between Guy Patrick and Calgary hockey interests ended here yesterday evening, with the announcement of the Vancouver promoter that another meeting will be held in Seattle Sunday. If Calgary completes arrangements for a rink by that time the Tigers will again be entered in the Northwestern Hockey League, otherwise a loop will be formed to include the coast cities and possibly Spokane.
Sam Timmins and Gordon McPar- lene, Calgary hockey products who have been service in pro. ranks, have gathered the nucleus of a team to enter the northwest loop. But the Calgary Arena, the only hockey am- phitheatre in the city, was con- demned last summer, and unless re- paired cannot be used this winter.
Another hockey player has ex- pressed himself as favorable to back- ing a Calgary entry in the profes- sional league this year. He is Paul Thompson, star forward of last year's world champion Chicago Black Hawks. Paul is a holdout at present, and says that if the Hawks' man- agement does not meet his terms he will back the Calgary entry.

One moment there is an agi- young chap named Leon Miller, who does all sorts of amazing evolutions with his legs and feet; the next a troupe of adorable Chinese beauties—Sing-Song Girls of Soochow; Linn Fah (Lotus Blossom), Huang Fah (Jasmine Flower), Tsien Lichee (Lan- clous Lychee), Wong Fung (Fragrant Zephyr), Yook Kin (Jade Eyes), and Tin Hong Mun (Gate of Heaven);

STAGE REVUE OPENS TO-DAY

Empire Theatre Features "Girls in Cellophane" With Many Fine Artists

After a triumphant tour across the United States, and up the Pacific Coast from Los Angeles, the much- talked-of New York revue, "Girls in Cellophane," opened its Victoria en- gagement at the Empire Theatre this afternoon, and will show again twice this evening as well as to-morrow and Monday.
Said the theatrical critic of The Vancouver Sun regarding this show: "The entire stage show was good and action was the by-word throughout. The star, even in the galaxy of good entertainers, was not hard to choose. Billy Wade clowning his way into the hearts of his audiences. This young man has more original jokes at his finger tips than any one seen in Vancouver in a long time."
The Seattle Times, speaking of this show, said "Billy Wade is Joe Penner's only rival on the American stage. Assisted by Miss Lou Beverly, Wade presents a fast line of comedy—clean and clever. An outstanding feature of the show is a brilliant ensemble of pretty girls, wrapped entirely in cellophane."
The scenery with this revue is done in black and silver, and is extremely smart. The costumes are modern and attractive, and the programme is full of music and dancing.

"Mrs. Wiggs" At The Dominion

Famous Story, With Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields and Zasu Pitts Opens To-day

One of America's immortal classics, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," has been made into a charming, ab- sorbing and delightful photoplay by Paramount and came to the Dominion Theatre to-day, with Pauline Lord, W. C. Fields and Zasu Pitts in the featured roles.

Adapted from the play by Alice Hegan Rice and Anne Crawford Flex- ner, the film also incorporates several elements of the book which has delighted millions of readers, young and old, for nearly two generations.
All of the unforgettable episodes from the story are here; the annexa- tion of "Cubby," the curious "Thank- giving dinner," the hilarious theatre party, Miss Hazy's wedding and the tragic death of little Jimmy.
Acting the title role, Pauline Lord justifies her stage reputation by a touching, tender and beautifully timed impersonation of quaint, motherly Mrs. Wiggs whose aphorisms and homespun wisdom take on new significance when she utters them.
W. C. Fields is excellent in a featured role, bringing to the picture the same uproarious comedy which he exhibited in his recent starring vehicles. The scenes between Fields and Pitts, who is cast as "Miss Hazy," are priceless.

Good Cast In "White Cargo"

With a splendid cast of players in the leading roles, the much dis- cussed play "White Cargo" will be presented in Victoria at the Empire Theatre on November 1, 2 and 3 by the International Players of Van- couver, a company that has won widespread and well deserved popu- larity with large mainland audiences.
Mole Lufford, a dainty little ac- tress from New Zealand, has the lead- ing role in "White Cargo." She is a player of wide experience, and has carried leading roles in many pro- ductions.

Domesticated Crow Is Novel Family Pet

"Jackie," Owned By City Fireman, Is Constant Source of Amusement and Worry to Family and School Teachers

A domesticated crow, which shows remarkable ability to learn and among other tricks smokes a pipe and goes to school, is a family pet owned by Alex. McAllister, city fireman, and the particular pet of his young son, Jimmy. Its name is "Jackie."

But this is only one side of the question. The other comes from H. S. Hurn, principal of Victoria West School, where the bird is a regular visitor. Although Mr. Hurn, who everyone else in the school, feels kindly disposed towards the bird, he feels it has cultivated its welcome with such displays of mischief as stealing pencils, and erasers, and tipping over inkwells.

It was quite a novelty when Jimmy first brought "Jackie" to school and everyone loved him. They played with him and fed him. He was a boon companion to all.

Then the teachers struck on the brilliant idea of using "Jackie" for nature study. Although it was a trifle inconvenient to be held before the class and have his fine points displayed, "Jackie" did not object, and in addition the teacher found it created a new interest in nature study.

But then "Jackie's" period of usefulness expired and the joy of his little antics of stealing pencils and erasers and knocking inkwells over came to an end. It was felt he should go home.

But "Jackie" had other ideas. He liked the school, the children and even the teachers. They fed him and took good care of him in return for his exhibition services and he was not particularly friendly disposed towards leaving when his master started away at school. And now the problem is: What is going to be done about it? That is up to Mr. McAllister to decide.

EASILY DOMESTICATED

Mr. McAllister got "Jackie" when he was a baby and took him home. The bird took a liking to his master and appeared quite comfortable in his surroundings.

However, Mr. McAllister is seriously considering putting him under control, as even his wife is beginning to realize that it is not such a great novelty now to watch him knock tea-cups and plates on to the floor merely to hear the sound they make in dropping.

WAS FOUNDED BY CANADIAN

Lt.-Col. F. W. Mouso of St. John's Military Academy, Wisconsin, Visits City

Lieut.-Col. Frank W. Mouso, vice-president and treasurer of St. John's Military Academy, Det.-field, Wisconsin, is at the Empress Hotel to-day, seeing Canada for the first time. He motored to the Coast and arrived here yesterday accompanied by his brother, J. Mouso, wholesale food distributor of Seattle, and J. B. Kenna, contact man of the St. John's college personnel.

St. John's Military Academy is a preparatory military school. It is situated in many respects to the famous West Point institution and the same uniform is worn by the students. A Canadian of English parents, Rev. Sidney T. Ruytine, founded the academy fifty years ago. It is an Episcopal school and can accommodate 450 students, there being about 300 on the roll at present. The school comprises fifteen stone buildings standing in 182 acres of magnificent grounds.

SCHOOL HAS AIRPORT

In telling of the work of the school to-day, Lieut.-Col. Mouso explained it was the preparatory military school in the whole of the United States with its own airport and fleet of training planes for courses in flying.

There are fifty lakes in the vicinity of the school, and instruction is given in land and water machines. The students during fifteen hours' solo flying in a year. There are fifteen student pilots getting their flying wings at St. John's Academy, and ground work.

DROP PARTY LINES

Lieut.-Col. Mouso is a Republican who contends that party lines have been dropped and politics subordinated to the success of the great recovery drive in the United States. "Fundamentally," he said of the NRA, "there is a great recovery under way and nothing can block it." But he does not believe in the soundness of the policy of wholesale spending in times of economic stress to bring back prosperity. The spending of $25,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000, he claims, has to be accounted for sooner or later.

He speaks in praise of the Civilian Conservation Corps, which employs upwards of 400,000, and has taken the young men off the streets and engaged them in useful pursuits. Under the CCC the young men are housed in highly organized camps and engage in reforestation and other important work, for which each man receives board and upwards of $30 a month, a large percentage of which goes to the parents. The men are under military control, and sign on for three months' service with the option of signing again for three months indefinitely. Study courses under special instructors are available, and the men are taught to become useful citizens.

SON FINDS FATHER DEAD IN BATHROOM

Hugh Cameron, aged forty-nine, was found dead at his home at 2811 Rose Street, this morning, according to a police report. Mr. Cameron had been under doctor's care for some time and apparently was the victim of an epileptic fit this morning. He was found by his four-year-old son, John, when he walked into the bathroom. Police were summoned immediately and Coroner E. C. Hart pronounced life extinct and ordered removal of the body to Carter's Funeral Home.

Warns Against Housebreakers

Police Chief Reiterates Advice to Household on Theft Prevention

Police warnings regarding protection against night prowlers who have been committing petty thefts, were reiterated this morning with the entering of two city stores. Fortunately in neither case was anything of value taken.

"There are a number of prowlers around the city just now and again we wish to warn householders and storekeepers of the necessity of keeping their premises securely locked at night, and above all to secret away any valuables, or money," Chief Heatley said.

"In many instances lately where homes have been robbed and jewelry and money taken, the valuables would probably never have been stolen had it not been for the fact that people were careless in leaving them about the house. Too often we have had cases where thieves have entered houses and found jewelry lying on a table, inviting theft."

"If Victorians would take only ordinary precaution in locking their homes and keeping their valuables hidden they could assist the police greatly in discouraging these thefts," he said.

"DON'TS" OUTLINED

The chief drew attention to a list of "don'ts" for theft prevention which he had printed in the traffic safety booklet during the first campaign. This list warns housekeepers against leaving keys under doormats, lowering window shades when leaving their homes as this invites to enter; closing a house for any length of time without securely locking it; having door locks which can be opened with pass keys; going on vacation without notifying the police, and allowing strangers to represent themselves as inspectors of various descriptions to enter homes without credentials.

The entries yesterday evening were made at the Victoria Meat Market, Pandora Avenue, where three twenty-cent bills were taken, and the Police Safe Co., 222 Yates Street, where a cash drawer was pulled out and matches strewn around by a thief who obtained nothing.

At noon to-day the subscription list stood as follows: Previously acknowledged, $17,004. G. H. Dawson $25, Major S. Robinson $5, E. A. M. Williams $10, Mrs. Hamilton Smith $5, B. L. ## Few Minutes Eases Neuritis Pains Now!

DISCOVERY BRINGING QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN TO MILLIONS

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show that Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get in of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

FARMERS WANT WORKS SCHEME

Manitoba Convention Endorses 10-Year Programme to Alleviate Drought

By RAY G. ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Brandon, Man., Oct. 26.—With their 1934 convention ended, the United Farmers of Manitoba today were launched on a programme of stock-taking and consideration of new conditions prevailing throughout the west.

The convention ended yesterday evening after a special committee had been appointed to work in co-operation with the executive in revising the constitution and ascertaining the objectives on which the organization should concentrate. The resolution was in line with the declaration of J. B. Wood, Oakville, newly elected president, that consolidation of members and increased activity should be sought.

Roy McPhail, president of the Manitoba Co-operative Livestock Limited, and retiring president of the U.F.M., declared during a discussion of livestock marketing, that Manitoba breeders were not favorable to any compulsory plan of marketing through any organization of a monopolistic nature. They were antagonistic to any organization holding 100 per cent. control of marketing facilities. Unable to join Saskatchewan and Alberta in any such venture under the Natural Products Marketing Act, the Manitoba breeders might yet devise some way to do their marketing under the act, but he was doubtful if it would be in the near future.

FOR DROUGHT AREAS

The convention, after listening to an address by Premier Bracken on the prairie drought situation, urged steps to aid farmers still on their farms in the drought area of southwestern Manitoba and to assist the return of those farmers who have quit their land in the district. They endorsed a ten-year programme of public works to alleviate drought conditions, including construction of dams and irrigation. Reforestation of all lands suitable for forest growth was recommended and the delegates suggested the programme be initiated by the federal and provincial governments.

The exact wording of the resolution was not given yesterday, but it was understood copies were to be forwarded to the Minister of Labor, the Premier and the Minister of Municipal Affairs, and federal members.

International Peace Cause Is Supported

D. B. Plunkett, M.P., Alan Chambers and Mrs. D. G. Steeves, M.P.P., Give Views at League of Nations Meeting

Speakers of three different political hues yesterday evening gave their views on the cause of international peace to a meeting in the Memorial Hall, sponsored by the Victoria branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada, in the interests of furthering the organization's work and increasing its membership.

The speakers, in order, were D. B. Plunkett, M.P. for Victoria; Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo federal riding; and Mrs. D. G. Steeves, M.P.P., North Vancouver, Dean Quinlan presided.

As president of the local league society, the Dean welcomed the fairly large gathering. The object of the meeting was to increase the league society membership in Canada, which, he stated, was a citizens' organization formed by the late Sir George Foster.

The international outlook at present gave some grounds for encouragement compared to six months ago, the Dean continued. However, the general drift of continental and conflict after the failure of the Disarmament Conference. The Dean claimed that if the manufacture of military armaments had been undertaken by the state rather than private concerns, war between Paraguay and Bolivia would have died out months ago.

In the aftermath of the assassinations there had been a notable absence of frenzy, another factor which appeared to encourage the cause of peace.

D. B. PLUNKETT

"To speak before an audience on behalf of peace is an easy objective, for I do not think anyone has forgotten the last war," said Mr. Plunkett.

He thought many people misunderstood the concept of the League of Nations. The league did not intend to prevent wars by force. The league had many varied interests.

"Don't let any munition maker take you up a side street and impress you with the fact that war is inevitable," he said. The solution of the great economic troubles today was the World War, he continued.

The speaker also drew attention to the fact that the league had worked in the interest of the working man in addition to working for peace. It also fought importation of narcotic drugs. The league had done more to suppress this traffic than any other endeavor put forward.

The white slave trade had also come within the league's scope. "International days have come and only by application of laws over all countries together can these evils of which I have spoken be overcome," he said. People should not be swayed by those who did not understand the cost of this suppression, but he assured this was very small in comparison with the cost of the last war.

DEFENSE WAS

His personal definition of war was that "it sears the souls of men and brings anguish and desolation to the hearts of women of any country afflicted."

The situation in Europe which followed the Maresfield assassination was unparalleled in world history, and the reason for this was "there was a place in Europe where the hot heads can go and blow off before they draw the sword," Mr. Chambers said.

If the league had proven nothing else, it had acted as a safety valve. There was now a court where nations might confer and smouldering resentments, racial hatreds and these other tiny sparks of war might be brought out and passed off.

The league had been criticized lately because of the loss of Japan. This feeling that the league had suffered a setback was more than offset

MAKE SACRIFICE FOR PRIVILEGES

Women's Penalty in Winning Modern Status Is Losing Men's Courtships

By HELEN WELSHIMER
Life is playing a see-saw game with women. Their end of the wooden board is up in Russia and down in Germany. And in neither case are they strolling along in gay parade with garlands on their hair and harps in their hands.

Soviet Russia has given women all the privileges and all the responsibilities that men have. She may even carry a gun if she likes army and air. But her husband can't ask her to pay for their toilet articles and teeth braces. As their mother has of the bill has been.

We think, somehow or other, that there is a little lack of chivalry in the way that Russian women have been placed. And in neither case are they strolling along in gay parade with garlands on their hair and harps in their hands.

In Germany women have been deprived of all but breeding privileges. That, we assuredly admit, is stupidly unfair.

No, there is a happy balance that should be struck. The see-saw should be equally balanced. There are certain responsibilities that are peculiarly woman's, others that are unambiguously man's. From them privileges arise.

LADIES PAY

Chivalry, we are told, grew tarnished when the Women's Party was organized. The demand for voting privileges spoiled many a pretty speech. Well, we got the ballot. And listen! Having given up certain amusements for the franchise, why don't we women use it? Maybe we don't really know what we want, after all. Just that we have to want something.

Amazing new remedy helps lame backs overnight

Ouch! When you're up you can't sit down—and when you're down you can't get up without excruciating agony. It's time out of 20 by acute uric acid.

Don't let it cripple you another day. Just buy one bottle of ALLENRU. Take as directed. If you are not amazed and delighted at the improvement, return the empty bottle to your druggist. He'll give you back every cent you paid for it.

us share the dinner checks, if they permitted us to do the theatre on the co-operative basis. At first, the gentlemen objected. Then they were assured. Eventually those on whom the single standard of entertainment was tried gave a long sigh and let the ladies pay. Those who wouldn't—well, plenty would!

We pretended that we were modern that certain little niceties which men enjoy doing for women timidly withdrew. Mr. Walter Bales and Queen Elizabeth to-day should encounter the famous mud puddle that ruined Raleigh's helmet cloak the Queen would probably say: "Keep your coat on, Walter!" and take the puddle with a flying leap.

Don't jump never so wooing capable business women who let them know that they can beat them at their own game. They woo them—If the women use their brains to disguise their own perfect self-efficiency. Men have always liked the mysterious. They go seeking it, through unfathomable depths. If ever, woman can have a chance to make use of it. We can hide how much we know. Nobody needs to know how much we know.

of Greater Victoria for the Coming Year.

Thousands of letters and pledge cards have been sent out from Campaign Headquarters during the last few weeks but up to date the number of returns has been disappointingly small. It has been left to 360 individual donors to set the mark of $17,000 now reached. There must be many thousands of people in this city and the adjacent municipalities who, without feeling it, could give a dollar or two to help those who through circumstances beyond their control are helpless and hopeless.

On this page appears a reproduction of the pledge card sent out from Headquarters. For the convenience of those who have not received a card or who have mislaid it, may we suggest that they cut out this reproduction, fill it in and mail it to Campaign Headquarters, Room 6, 640 Fort Street, together with their donation, no matter how small. Should it be more convenient to pay at a later date or in instalments, the card may be filled in accordingly.

LOOSE ENDS

and me. And straight through all the mist and shadow and lies of this time came Youth's question—why, in a country overbrimming with every form of wealth, can't we have work for our hands so that we may earn a living and set up our own homes?

Why? No talk of money shortage will fool these youngsters, for they know that money is an artificial difficulty, that our system of exchanging wealth is mad and ruinous. No talk of debt will satisfy them because they do not contract the debts and have received nothing for them but the privilege of paying them off. No talk of foreign trade difficulties will serve either, for they see a vast market here, if people only had the means to acquire the necessities of life.

No, the old mumbo-jumbo, the old incantations and political witchcraft that has served our politicians and economic rulers so well in the past is no use with youngsters like this fellow Smith. The trouble is that they already know more about the fundamentals of this situation than most of the politicians.

Youth, if it has any of the qualities of its fathers, is going to ask that question and it is going to demand an answer and it will not be put off any longer by the obviousness of the answer. Our whole outlook on life is clouded with a million old prejudices, a clutter of little selfish interests, a feeling, after all we have seen, that nothing ever really succeeds very well.

Yes, youth sees it with a clear, whole thing, like the child in the ancient story who, while all the cringing courtiers praised the king's new robes, pointed out the embarrassing truth that his majesty was stark naked.

Yes, youth sees it with a clear, withering sanity, and demands something better. No use to pooh-pooh their inexperience. No use to laugh at their innocence and little crudities. No use telling them that when great men like Mr. Bennett have failed it is useless for them to expect success. What we must make up our minds to, what no generation has ever made up its mind to until too late, is that these youngsters will be running this country to-morrow or the day after. You may not like it.

You may be thoroughly convinced that they will wreck us. You may clearly foresee a disaster to us all. But, my dear friend, just what are you going to do about it? For, alas, the course of nature and the span of life are matters outside even your control or Mr. Bennett's.

RUSHING

"I'VE BEEN READIN' in the papers," Mrs. Noggins told me to-day as I picked her up at the corner and drove her to town, "I bin readin' in the papers—of course, we can't afford the paper regular, but sometimes we get one wrapped around a parcel of stuff."

"That's what you're sayin' as cooked and 'as had to throw out because nobody can eat of it but my chickens, and they don't like it much—well, I bin readin' in the papers 'ow some feller 'as flew to Australia or Austris or one of them places, you know a long way off. They flew in airplanes, you know. My boy, 'e's bin up in a airplane, but 'e's a plumber and they do get around a lot, plumbers do, don't they? There's nothing like plumbin', my boy says, for seein' a side of life that most people never see."

"Yus, they flew in airplanes and got to Australia or Austris or one of them funny places in about three days, instead of three or four weeks. Wonderful, ain't it? Aye, that it is to be sure. But wot good is that? Wot I alius ask my boy? Wot good is it to get there in three days? When you've got there, wot can you do but wot you alius do? It just means you can eat and sleep in Austris or Austris or wherever it is for a couple of weeks instead of eatin' and sleepin' somewhere else."

"And that's wot they're all doin' these days, you know. Just rushin' from one place to another and doin' the same things when they get there. You can do 'em just as well where you are, you know, just as well; better maybe, because it's more comfortable. That's wot I said to young Mrs. Boggis yesterday, I says: 'You're just like them Australian feller,' I says. 'You and your 'usband can't at still. You got to be movin' all the time like a airplane in a race. Why, bless me, you bin to the movie in town twice this month,' I says."

"and twice out playin' bridge. Just like them haviators flyin' to Austris," I says. "Rush, rush, rush," I says, "and when you get there you just eat and talk like you'd do if you was 'ome."

"'And you goin' to 'ave a baby next February,' I says. 'The pore little feller, 'e'll 'ardly ever see his parents,' I says, 'unless 'e's a Australian feller to keep up with you.' I says. 'Wot's the good of flyin' to Austris? Who wants to go to Austris anyway? (That's where the bore allus haasassinatin' people, ain't it?) You can't do anything when you get there but just eat and sleep the same as 'ere. If you'll take my advice, Mrs. Boggis, I says, 'you'll stop all this 'igh-flyin' around the country like them haviators and stay 'ome from the movies and them bridge parties. And you'll stay out of Victoria,' I says, 'because it's fast and furious and wicked. I got to be in with me heggis, but only in the day time, I says. 'Wot's after dark in Victoria fer me,' I says, 'not after dark.'"

CLAIM UNITY
IN JUGOSLAVIA

Regency Issues Proclamation Asserting Security in Foreign Relations

Associated Press
Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Oct. 26.—The new Jugoslavian Regency issued a proclamation to-day asserting the country's "united internally and secure in its foreign relations."

The statement was designed to allay fear at home and abroad regarding Jugoslavia's strength and unity and to clarify the course of the regency. It follows:

"We have given our oath to the National Parliament that we will be true to King Peter II and will watch over the unity and independence of the state and the integrity of our territory; that we will also have before our eyes the interests of the throne and the well-being of Jugoslavia."

"We are convinced that in fulfillment of this duty we shall have the entire people on our side."

INITIALS ON VOTERS' LIST

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Voters who were registered by federal enumerators by initials in place of their Christian names will not be required to re-register, according to Col. John Thompson, franchise commissioner.

"There is doubt that, under the statute, the full names should be given," he said, "but this does not mean that people who are on the list with only their initials given, will have to go to revising officers and have corrections made. The revising officers, however, when confronted with such errors should correct them of their own motion. It is all a question of identity. If a man is well known by his initials, it is not necessary to have his full name known. While the statute is plain enough, a liberal construction must always be placed on such provisions."

NEW RULING IS PROBLEM

Whether or not the new ruling of the Board of Industrial Relations, establishing a minimum rate of 45¢ an hour for construction work in municipalities, affects relief allowances is a question which confronts the Oak Bay Council in connection with the new order of the board.

Discussion on the matter was referred to a committee of the whole council, yesterday.

That's what women say after they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It tones up the whole system—quiets quivering nerves—gives them the extra energy they need—makes trying times endurable. Read these letters.

"I have more pep since I took your Vegetable Compound. It has regulated me and decreased the pain. Backaches are practically gone. I sleep better and my nerves are improved. A friend of mine is taking it now."—SALLY BROWN, Box 352, Dundas, Ontario.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as the directions say. I am getting back my strength. My nerves are better, I eat well and have more pep."—MRS. WALSLEY MARKOWSKY, Rosethorn, Saskatchewan.

"Every month I suffered and I was nervous and weak. I bought one bottle of your Vegetable Compound and got relief right away. I feel much stronger now.

Was Torture to Ride STOMACH So Bad

Surely your stomach could not be as bad as this: "Fused to collapse on the street," writes C. H. W. Long Eaton, Eng., "could not eat meals without vomiting, and to ride in a bus was torture." Yet today Mr. W. (like thousands of other former sufferers from indigestion, gastritis, flatulence, dyspepsia, heart-burn, acidity and even more serious stomach troubles) is a fit man. "I can now," he concludes, "eat anything."

Maclean Brand Stomach Powder made this remarkable difference in Mr. W. It will bring you relief, too—help you to go to the dinner table each day joyfully. Maclean Brand is made according to the formula of the Head Stomach Specialist of a famous English Hospital.

Get Macleans from your druggist. But be sure you get the genuine, bearing the signature, "Mr. C. Maclean." In bottles, 75c. Also in tablets—never loose.—Distributors, Rigo Agencies, Toronto.

Tom Obce, who since the opening of the Citizens' Recreation Rooms, has staged the opening and closing of the winter concert, will open the season, Friday, November 9, with good programme. Assisting Mr. Obce will be Stan James, humorist; Leo Holding, guitar and songs; Eric Chalmers, monologues; Johnny Gow, conjurer, and Will Anderson, violin.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES

VICTORIA WEST UNITED

The weekly meeting of the Victoria West-United Y.P.S. was held on Tuesday evening and commenced with a devotional period. The second chapter of the book, "The Man Nobody Knows," was read by Mr. Milley. The four members of the Table Tennis Club who are to compete against the competitors from the Esquimalt Y.P.S. on Thursday night will be: Francis Jenkins, Violet Medley, Jack Price and Bill Lewis.

A programme has been drawn up by Mrs. Milley consisting of a concert and a play by the young people on November 16. Patsy Caley, Peggy Burrows, Jack Price, Bill Lewis and Jack Wallace are on the programme committee assisting Mrs. Milley. Rev. W. R. Brown gave a few suggestions for the programme.

The theme for the evening was "Current Events." The president, Jack Price, asked questions on current topics which was followed by a general discussion by the members.

Next Tuesday will be a social evening, and a number of members have been selected to bring games for the entertainment.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

An illustrated talk by Rev. J. Harwood A. Warr featured the recent meeting of the Metropolitan Young People's Society. Assisted by a great many beautiful illustrations, he outlined his recent trip across the continent to New York, Chicago and Salt Lake City. He elaborated on the most interesting part of his journey, namely the World's Fair at Chicago by showing a fine collection of pictures dealing with the several sections of the exposition. The lecture was divided into two parts between which a collection was taken to help defray the expense of the lantern.

Preceding the lecture, worship service was conducted by Miss Hazel McPhee, assisted by Miss Florence Gille and Edwin Cliff. Group meetings followed. Vice-president Elbert Wood initiated the new members of the society in a very amusing ceremony. The evening concluded with games and a fellowship hand-picked. Next week a Halloween party will be held in the form of a ghost convention.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A.

On Monday evening the members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. entertained the children of the Good Hope Mission. The meeting opened with a devotional period. Rev. Lee leading in prayer. A thanksgiving song was sung by the Brownies of the Mission.

A tableau depicting a missionary hymn was staged by the members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. and a clever drill display by the Brownies brought the programme to a close.

During the evening Canon Chadwick extended a sincere welcome to the visitors and Rev. Lee expressed his appreciation to the members of St. John's for their hospitality. Games and refreshments brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

A large crowd is expected to attend the dance this evening in the A.O.F. Hall.

CENTENNIAL

The weekly meeting of the Centennial young people took the form of a short sermon competition. Following a devotional period conducted by Miss Eileen Foster, Miss Cargill and Bernard Ennals, the president, James McCague, announced that four contestants would deliver brief sermons. The first was delivered by Miss Margaret Awmack, who took as her text Luke xii, 33, "Provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not." Material treasures are either lost on earth or cannot be carried beyond it. The only treasure of abiding worth is the character or personality we develop, said the speaker, in substance. William Young, the next speaker, chose as his text II Timothy, i, 7, "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power and love." Mr. Young held that love without power was helpless sentiment and that power without love was more apt to crush than help. The two were complementary, and must always be linked together in the Christian way of life. Bernard Ennals spoke next, using Matt. iv, 19, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men," as a text. Speaking on the fine opportunity for service which the young people of a Christian country had, the speaker urged all to use it to the full no matter what became one's vocation. The last sermon was delivered by Miss Eileen Foster, who spoke on Luke x, 41-42, "Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things, but one thing is needful and Mary hath chosen that good part." In a very beautiful way Miss Foster showed that service and devotion must go together in a complete life.

The judges, Mrs. B. F. McKim, Rev. W. J. Howard and Rev. I. A. McKelvey, awarded the decision to Miss Foster. In making the announcement, Mr. Howard complimented the young people on this type of programme and particularly those who spoke, for the very excellent manner in which they did so.

At the close of the meeting the members enjoyed a period of recreation under the leadership of Ernie Hatch.

O.B.Y.P.A. CLUB

The Chicago Fair was the subject of an address given to the O.B.Y.P.A. Club Tuesday evening in the parlors of the Oak Bay United Church by Capt. F. R. Wright. He opened his talk by explaining the basic purpose of the exposition is to illustrate the dependence of modern development on scientific research. He described the avenue of flags, the sky ride, the midwest town, motor assembly plant, the illuminated Century of Progress fountain. Of interest was the Lama temple built for a Manchu emperor of China in 1767, which had been imported to the fair. He told of the science building, which housed the progressive exhibits of the basic and applied sciences, viz. chemistry, biology and geology, medicine, also the "geological time clock," which illustrated the march of time. A robot in this building described and demonstrated the "chemistry of digestion," showing the processes of digestion and nutrition. In the electric building a color organ translates music into colors. When the music is grave and solemn the colors are blue, violet and purple; when gay and exciting or passionate it turns to yellow, orange and red. The house of the future, composed of steel and glass, was also described.

In closing Capt. Wright said: his major impression was that man power, due to the great development of the machine age and electrically controlled labor-saving devices, will never be gainfully employed, citing venor for the evening, thanked Capt. Wright for his able address. Also on the programme two musical monologues were rendered by E. Cook, accompanied by H. H. Hollins. The meditation period was taken by Misses Lucy Shaw and Mary Sinclair.

WORK REPLACES RELIEF PLANS

Roosevelt Aims to Take Everyone Off Rolls and Give Them Some Work

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Oct. 25.—As far as the administration is concerned, General Johnson hit the nail squarely on the thumb in his last press conference, when he extolled the virtues of the direct cash dole.

When the incredible general derided other forms of relief—such as work programmes—he arrayed himself in direct opposition to the whole scheme of Roosevelt policy, as it is now being secretly formulated to meet the winter relief load.

Roosevelt has decided that the New Deal should get as far away from straight relief as it possibly can. His plan, now in embryo, aims to take everyone off the relief rolls and give them some kind of work.

He is bound to fall short of that goal. But he is tired of relief of the present type, thinks the country also is tired of it, believes it is bad for everybody's morale, and recalls the tonic nature of CWA last winter.

Hopkins, Ickes and Richberg agree. So you can look for something big in the way of a programme which will stress municipal projects of all types. Construction, demolition, railroad underpass work and community swimming pools are among the things being discussed.

The plan, a synthesis of FWA, CWA, and other work programmes, will be aimed chiefly at the larger cities, where most of the unemployment is. And it is going to be rather expensive.

"... On an unexpected turn in a blinding rain recently, I met a train face to face. I jammed on the brakes and the car skidded directly on to the tracks. ### Washington Senators Get Over $125,000 And Lary For Brilliant Shortstop

ALTHOUGH Montreal Canadiens have lost Howie Morenz, dashing centre-ice star, the Flying Frenchmen will be the speed boys of old again this year in the National Hockey League campaign. There is, for instance, the very fast-skating Joe Lamb to consider. This may be the year that Joe will settle down to the score plenty of goals instead of setting old scores. He has lots of drive to his play and may bob up as one of the season's sensations. He is Crutchfield, McGill amateur, is also no plodder on skates. He can really turn on the heat, has heart enough to stand off any attempts at assault and sufficiency to blast back at any who might try to pick on him. It may be that some players will attempt to test out the tall ex-student. In the case they might well remember that Nelis was nurtured in the old Eastern Canada Hockey League, where a puck in the eye was considered the equal of one in the net any day.

The soft-spoken John McGill is another who was well grounded in the fundamentals of sock and block. John looks like a professor of theology, has the air of a Chesterfield off the ice. He was a bit of a buzz saw in amateur hockey, who seldom started anything, but was a neat finisher. So Canucks are getting plenty of fire to their makeup this season. In addition there is Roger Jenkins who no less a judge than Lester Patrick rates as one of the best blockers in the game.

Jack Riley should help a lot. He was seasoned last year, had advanced to the point where he is being talked about as first line centre. When it comes to line centre there is always Wildore Laroche, George Mantha and Armand Mondou who can always be relied on to turn on heat at the least opportunity.

Eagles will be the new name under which the transplanted Ottawa Hockey Club will fly its colors this season. St. Louis must be a great town for bird fanciers. Cardinals, who are a species of bird, and not named after high ranking clergy of the same title, are proud possessors of the baseball championship. The new name is a happy one. It is bright, brings to mind a fighting bird, has a suggestion of power as well as speed. There are worse names in the league than that. It fits neatly into headlines, has a snap that should attract attention. They were the first to hit the ice, and Eddie Gerard, apparently determined that the club will be well conditioned.

One thing Ottawa players can be sure of, that Eddie will permit no loose training. The players will have to observe a very strict discipline, as a stickler in that direction. Eddie probably has had his fill of being an easy-going good fellow. His team is by no means a pushover, as some clubs will find out the first time they play. Quite a few of them were tested by fire last year, and emerged as pretty good material for the second season's campaign. The new team of St. Louis will be watched with interest. This Gerard is no simpleton in hockey matters. He will handle an action club this year as he has handled the one he wants them to—or else. Even if he missed a bit around Montreal, that doesn't wash him up. When his Eagles soar to victory, there should be some surprises laid out along their line of march.

An evidence of the healthy state of the English breeding industry is furnished by figures of the recent Doncaster yearling sales, which showed a grand aggregate of 298,730 guineas compared with 188,738 guineas last year. The Sledmere stud led in the distribution with top yearlings by a handsome colt by Gainsborough-Abbotts Glen, which went for 6,300 guineas. Contrast with this the top price of $11,500 at the Saratoga sales, which will give some idea of the stability of the British turf even in what is considered depression times. The fourteen Sledmere lots made 22,310 guineas, averaging 2,307.

From now on the future of British boxing will be in the hands of one man. He is Lieut. Commander E. W. B. Leake, a wealthy Scotsman, who has bought a controlling interest in the Jeff Dickson promotion. This man will be responsible for all the big fights at the Albert Hall in London. He will carry on much of the work formerly done by the old National Sporting Club. One of the statements Commander Leake made was to the effect that he had decided to sell the site for the new National Sporting Club in St. James's Square, London.

"Work has been stopped for some months," he said. "So far as I can see, boxing has outgrown the National Sporting Club as at present constituted. It has become a gigantic public spectacle and an intricate commercial undertaking." Commander Leake stated that he is out to get contracts with all the leading boxes and that they would fight on a percentage basis. He revealed it was he who was financially responsible for the recent Peterson-Harvey and Peterson-Gains fights.

"I am determined to cleanse boxing and rid it of undesirable elements," he concluded. "Any fighter I have anything to do with will be strong. I must restore the integrity of the game in the eyes of the public."

COACH RELEASED

One of Biggest Deals in Major Baseball in Recent Years; Comes as Complete Surprise to Supporters of Both Washington and Boston Clubs; Cronin Managed Washington For Last Two Years.

WILL SUCCEED BUCKEY HARRIS

Washington, Oct. 26.—Joe Cronin, young manager of the Washington American League baseball team, was sold to-day to Boston Red Sox, and reports here said he was given a five-year contract as player-manager.

In one of the biggest major league deals of recent years, Boston bought the twenty-eight-year-old shortstop for a price reported to be the highest ever paid for a player, considerably more than the $125,000 the New York Yankees paid for Babe Ruth in 1919. The Red Sox also sent shortstop Lynford Lary to the Senators.

Cronin will succeed Stanley (Bucky) Harris as the Red Sox manager. It was understood here Harris, who lives here, was on a hunting trip to-day and Mrs. Harris said the deal was "new" to her.

The sudden sale of Cronin brought speculation here as to whom President Clark Griffith would select as manager for the Senators next season. It is known Griffith highly regards Harris, and it also has been rumored that Griffith would like to have George Herman (Babe) Ruth at the local helm.

Sale of the San Francisco ball player came as a complete surprise to Washington fans. He had been regarded as a fixture on the local club in view of his recent marriage to Miss June Robertson, adopted daughter of Griffith, chief owner of the Senators.

There had been a widespread belief among Washington fans that Cronin was being groomed to succeed Griffith at some time in the future as president of the club.

For several seasons Cronin has been recognized as the leading shortstop in the major leagues, and has been voted the most valuable player in the American League. For the last two seasons he has been manager of the local club.

He established himself with local fans in his first year as manager by winning the American League pennant for the first time since the days of "Bucky" Harris as Washington manager.

This year, however, faced with an almost unprecedented string of injuries, Cronin's club fell to pieces and finished in seventh place. Following the debacle, there had been widespread reports that Cronin was up in the team, but through them all, Cronin had been regarded as a fixture. He and Griffith had frequently discussed together the rebuilding of the club.

Joe Cronin, young manager of the Washington American League baseball team, was sold to-day to Boston Red Sox, and reports here said he was given a five-year contract as player-manager.

Huey Long Leads Football Brigade

Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 26.—Louisiana's "Kingfish" and super-showman, U.S. Senator Huey P. Long, dusted off his best silk suit and college tie for his role of master of ceremonies in the departure late to-day of five or more special trains loaded by his generosity with football fans to fill the Louisiana State University cheering section at Nashville, Tenn., in tomorrow's game against Vanderbilt.

The trains were ready for the exodus of the 3,000 students the senator provided with the wherewithal to see the game.

The 128-piece band and the 1,540 members of the L.S.U. cadets are guests of the "Kingfish," while the others are traveling on "loans" of $7 each the senator made to them, to be paid back next year.

Out to boost their standings in the various sections of the Victoria and District Basketball League, Pantorium girls, Hoyle-Brown, the erstwhile Beavers and Kingham-Gillespie squads will take the floor tonight in the Victoria High School gymnasium.

The programme should be exceptionally interesting, with at least two opposing teams promising to give the favorites good runs for their money.

The Pantorium girls, who have won their only start this year, should be able to handle the less experienced Maroons in the women's senior B encounter. The cleaners have been showing outstanding form in workouts, and are regarded as the team to beat for local honors this year.

The Hoyle-Brown outfit, which formerly operated as the Beavers, will be seeking a repeat victory over the boys in the men's senior B fixture. Kingham-Gillespie, with two victories, will probably find unexpected opposition from the Blackhaws, winners of their only start this season, in the intermediate A boys' section.

RUTH REPORTED GOING TO A'S

New York, Oct. 26.—Babe Ruth's uncertain status with New York Yankees apparently is going to furnish the "hot stove" league with its principal item of conversation this winter.

Since the Babe made his famous pronouncement at Detroit during the world series that he would not remain with the Yankees simply as a pinch-hitter, rumors have come thick and fast, connecting his name with various managerial berths.

The latest one, widely circulated yesterday, said Ruth would succeed Connie Mack as manager of Philadelphia Athletics next season. Just what basis in fact, if any, this yarn might have still waits to be learned to-day, for the story came when the two principals, Mack and Ruth, were on shipboard halfway out on the Pacific, on their way to Japan for a baseball barnstorming tour.

Even so there were plenty of denials. Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said that so far as he knew there was no truth in the story.

"One thing is sure," he went on. "Ruth is still on the reserve list of the Yankees, and no request has been made to us for his release or his transfer to another club."

"All I can say," said John Shibe, vice-president of the Athletics, "is that we have been trying to find a job for Ruth for years. There's apparently none open, so they decided to make him manager."

Mack's son, Cornelius McCullough Jr., said: "Father has no intention of retiring, and I can assure you that he will not retire before the next season."

What really led to the rumor, evidently, was the fact that Ruth was named field leader of Mack's barnstorming team in the Orient. The New York Daily News, which printed the story, said Mack, who will be seventy-two, in December, would announce his retirement upon his return to this country in January, and that Ruth then would be named manager.

St. Empress of Japan, en route to Tokyo, Oct. 26.—Reports Babe Ruth would succeed Connie Mack as manager of Philadelphia Athletics next season, a high pitch in anticipation of the A's manager to-day.

"My ambition," commented the baseball veteran, "is to continue as manager of the Athletics until I have passed my eightieth birthday."

At present the Navy and the Gunners are tied for first honors, with two overwhelming victories apiece. And so far, the Navy has not been hit by the withdrawal of players on cruises. If they are ever to make good their claim for premier honors, tomorrow's engagement should be their opportunity. Later in the season they will probably lose valuable players as the ships steam out of port.

Rugby interest to-day was keyed to a high pitch in anticipation of the outstanding game on to-morrow's five-match programme.

Japanese Outline Their Navy Demands

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 26.—In renewed conference at No. 10 Downing Street today Admiral Yamamoto, Japanese naval spokesman, somewhat lifted the veil on Japan's plan for equality in principle with the navies of Britain and the United States.

He departed to a certain extent from the statement of general principles to which the Japanese scheme so far had been confined. He gave details, he elucidated. But he still did not submit any concrete written scheme.

As a result of today's meeting it was intimated in British circles there was a good understanding of the Japanese position. The British have a pretty good idea of what the Japanese actually want.

MET AT ADMIRALTY

This afternoon British and Japanese naval experts met at the Admiralty to examine the technical side of the Japanese statement.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald again presided over today's meeting with the Japanese.

The Japanese plan was still shrouded in official secrecy, but it was understood the government still declined to suggest a specific figure for the maximum tonnage levels which it suggests should replace the present system of limiting navies by categories on a ratio system.

The Japanese plan envisages reduction or abolition of what they call offensive types—capital ships, including aircraft carriers, and equality in principle in defensive types, that is, cruisers, destroyers and submarines. Their spokesman expressed willingness to compromise on actual figures of tonnage levels, sizes of ships and guns, but compromise would be inevitable in any event if the Japanese plan is to be seriously considered.

Neither Britain nor the United States is likely to take kindly to the suggestion that capital ship classes be eventually done away with. For one thing this would entail agreement of many other powers, notably France and Italy, which are still building up to quota strength in these classes.

On the face of it the Japanese programme, in its basic principles, can be considered as practically impossible of acceptance.

TONNAGE REDUCTION

Washington, Oct. 26.—Authoritative sources disclosed here today that the Japanese, in their new naval proposals, have set a maximum global tonnage figure lower than the existing tonnage permitted by the Washington and London treaties.

The Japanese proposals are to end the existing five-five-three ratio, abolish or reduce tonnage of offensive warships and substitute an equal global tonnage figure.

The figure set by the Japanese will not be made public, however, it was said, until there has been a general discussion on the subject.

MOB THREATENS DEATH OF NEGRO

Associated Press

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 26.—Sheriff John P. Harrell of Washington County today said he had received information that the mob which took Claude Neal, negro, from a jail at Brewton, Ala., early this morning, would kill him to a stake at the place where Lola Cannidy of Greenwood was found murdered, "and let the girl's father kill the negro."

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Bar gold in London up to $4.14 in one day in Canadian funds, 146 3/4 in British funds. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $4.33 in Canadian.

LOSSES RULE AT MONTREAL

Associated Press

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Morris Silverstein, New York diamond broker, reported today he had been robbed of $500 and $50,000 in unset diamonds by four men who slugged him and took him for a short ride in their car. The men, armed with revolvers, forced him into their car. Hitting him on the head with a pistol butt, they stripped off the vest in which his gems were hidden, drove several blocks west and then pushed him from the car.

EXPECT COPPER MEETING SOON

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 26.—A conference of domestic and important world copper interests here yesterday, which suggests a curtailment appears as a possibility.

While no verification of such a meeting was made yesterday, it is understood the statistical position of the industry has led producers in the United States and the Belgian Congo to consider curtailment as a means for holding prices.

The United States price for domestic delivery has been fixed at nine cents a pound for blue eagle copper since June 12, and the world price yesterday was 6.80 to 6.85 cents, the American market being protected by a four cent tariff.

Producers do not look for the all-time low of five cents reached December 9, 1932, nor do they hope for the all-time high of thirty-seven cents of 1917, but it is agreed that copper prices can go little lower without heavy losses to producers.

An increase in world production has been predicted, which would mean lower prices eventually, and London interests have hinted of a pending American market break for the nine cent cent figure.

Securities Point Down At New York

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 26.—Little support was forthcoming for the drooping stock market today and prices generally showed declines of fractions to two or more points. Although a few weakly issues of the preceding session were somewhat resistant, the majority pointed down from the opening.

The close was heavy. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Wheat and rice reached new low levels for the season before staging a recovery in late dealing. Cotton was barely steady. Bonds while not too soft, were moderately lower. Foreign exchanges were quiet and somewhat irregular. The United States dollar advanced against sterling and some gold currencies.

Share off one to around three points at new lows for the year included those of Baldwin, common and preferred; Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel preferred and Standard Oil of New Jersey. Bethlehem Steel preferred lost about four points. Among others down were U.S. Steel common and preferred, Air Reduction, American Can, Chrysler, American Rolling Mill, American & Mexican Steel, U.S. common, Du Pont and Eastman Kodak.

Consolidated Gas steadied as did American Telephone and Standard Oil of California. McIntyre Petroleum, Howe Sound, U.S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and American Smelting showed recessions of one to two points.

HEAVY TONE IN BOND LIST

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 26.—U.S. government securities continued to sag a bit and the same time demand for corporate classifications slackened so the entire bond list carried a somewhat heavy tone during early trading today.

Secondary rails met enough resistance to put them down fractions to around a point. Some prime carrier loans also yielded a little ground.

Moderately lower prices were established also for some leading utility and industrial loans.

Foreign bonds showed few important changes and dealings were light.

Mistake to Avoid in Marriage

Stress Four Vital Points

A YOUNG woman who is going to be married asks me to list for her the chief mistakes that wives make in order that she may avoid them.

Well, daughter, the first and the greatest mistake that women make in marriage is in picking out the wrong men for husbands. A girl will give less serious thought and study and use less judgment in selecting the man she expects to spend the next thirty or forty years with than she does to the choice of a dress or a hat.

She wouldn't pick out a spangled ball gown and expect it to turn into a sweater suit for hard wear when she needed it. She wouldn't put a hundred dollars in a dress without examining its quality and seeing whether it was near silk or all silk, and whether its dye was fast and would hold the color or whether it would fade and run after a little use. She wouldn't buy a hat without giving profound consideration to whether it was the particular shade that suited her and had the angles that brought out her best points.

But she will marry a man just because he is a good looking and a good dancer or has a good line, without ever even trying to find out whether he can make a good living or has a good temper or has a good character or whether he will wear well or has a disposition that will suit hers. If women were as good shoppers for husbands as they are for clothes, there would be mighty few unhappy marriages.

The next mistake that wives make is in expecting too much of marriage. In spite of all the evidence to the contrary that they have seen about them in their own homes and the homes of their friends, they expect to pass from the altar into an earthly Paradise in which all they will have to do will be to sit on a silk cushion and sew a fine seam and feed upon strawberries, sugar and cream and be made love to. And they expect their husbands to be little tin gods, with the money-making ability of Henry Ford.

And when they find out that marriage is a hard job and full of bills and ills and sacrifices and that their husbands are mere mortal men with plenty of faults and weaknesses, they beat upon their breasts and wall over their lots. Ninety per cent of women's dissipation in marriage is the result of their demanding the impossible of it and their being disgruntled because it is not all play and no work and because their hard-worked husbands do not remain romantic lovers.

The third mistake that wives make is in defaulting on their end of the matrimonial partnership. Most men marry to get a home. They are sick and tired of eating around at restaurants and in cafeterias and having to order their own meals. They are worn out with having to remember to send out their laundry and they hate to go back at night to a dark and lonely room and so the main thing that makes them run their necks in the matrimonial halter is to get the kind of pie that mother made and to have a bright, clean, cheery home with a smiling wife to welcome them after their hard day's work.

Figure, then, their disappointment when they get wives who set them down to meals that would give an ostrich dyspepsia, whose houses are like pigsties, who waste their money and who stay so long at the bridge game or the natinee that they bring home the dinner in paper bags and tin cans. No wonder statistics show that most of the wife-deserters have been driven away from home by their wives' bad cooking.

The fourth mistake that wives make is nagging. There is not one woman in a million who can say a thing once and drop the subject or who can let bygones be bygones. Let a husband make a mistake in judgment and he never hears the last of it. Let him have some personal peculiarity, and wife never ceases to harp upon it.

There are men who have had to listen hundreds of times to their wives' dissertations on the time they lost a thousand dollars in a bad investment. There are men who are regaled with a lecture on the evils of smoking every time they light a cigar, through forty or fifty years of wedlock. There are men who never start downtown without being told to watch out for automobiles or not to get their feet wet. There are men who never even eat a single meal after they are married without being told how bad everything they like is for their stomachs.

And the fact that nagging wives nag often through affection than through sheer cussedness does not ameliorate their offence, nor make them any easier to endure.

The fifth mistake that wives make is in throwing away their bait as soon as they catch their poor fish. They think that once they have their man they can't lose him, and they don't need to waste upon him any of the arts and wiles that they used in trapping him. They go sloppy and slovenly before him, ignoring the fact that he goes from an untidy wife to a business office filled with spick-and-span young women who are balm to the eyes.

Worse still, wife goes negligent in temper at home. She doesn't consider it worth while to put on her good manners for a mere husband, any more than it is to put on her good clothes for him. She is peevish and shrewish and fretful and makes no effort to be entertaining and amusing, and that is why husband so often goes to the yes-yes girls who make life pleasant for him.

Finally, the greatest mistake of all that wives make is in not jollyng their husbands along. They never pay their husband a compliment. They never tell them how handsome and clever they are. They never try to be companionable, or to enter into their husbands' plans and hopes and ambitions. Half the time they don't even listen when their husbands try to discuss their affairs with them. They take all of the comforts and luxuries that their husbands give them as no more than their due, and never even say "thank you."

And that is where the ramps have their innings, because every man has to have some woman who admires him and flatters him and sympathizes with him and to whom he can brag and tell the things that he could tell to no other man and if his wife won't do this, some other woman will.

So, my dear, if you will pick out your husband carefully and take matrimony with a grain of salt and refrain from nagging your husband and be liberal with the salt-spreader, you will never join the ranks of the divorcees.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1934

Benefic aspects are strong to-day. The planetary influences are stimulating and inspiring. It is a time for confidence in business or professional affairs.

Women should find this an auspicious day for social affairs, shopping and seeking recreation. Under this way they should be able to present themselves in the best light.

The planetary government is auspicious for reform movements launched by women. A girl will gain fame as a national leader, and to the young will be entrusted great responsibilities. Women's organizations will gain power in effecting widespread municipal reform.

City streets are to be made safe for children. It is a happy wedding day presaging real partnership in a long association. Prosperity will be won step by step.

This should be a fortunate rule under which to make overtures for promotion in business enterprises. Advances in salaries are among the promised results of prosperity which will be more and more evident in the coming year.

While there will be fluctuations in the tide of business and commerce, the outlook for the United States is promising, due to stimulus from unparallel sources.

Young folk are well directed under this planetary government, which produces the consummation of spirit, and romance. College love affairs should bud while this configuration continues.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of happiness and good fortune. Meetings and commerce of the curious will be on the schedule of the month.

Children born on this day probably will be very popular as well as intelligent. Subjects of this sign usually have great physical energy and dynamism in personality.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Whitelaw Reid, 1871, journalist and diplomat; Kenyon Cox, 1844, artist; and Owen D. Young, 1874, lawyer and industrial leader.

NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Oct. 26.—The Pygmy Pavilion was crowded Tuesday night to hear a concert given by the Home Gas Optimists. Frank Anders was master of ceremonies with Calvin Wintor acting as musical director.

The various renditions by Mr. Cotton and Miss McEwan were favorably received.

The instrumental selections and an amusing sketch added to the enjoyment of the programme. Prior to the concert an informal banquet was held at the Malaspina Hotel.
